

Officers May Face Ban on Defense Sales

Bill Proposes to Restrict Men Just Out Of Military Service

BY EDMOND LE BRETON
Washington —(AP)— A legislative ban on defense firm sales jobs for officers and civilian officials just out of military service was prepared for house introduction today.

The bill provides a 2-year interval before former defense personnel could sell to the Pentagon. It carries out the main recommendation of a house subcommittee which studied the employment of such officers and officials by defense contractors.

Chairman F. Edward Herbert (D-La.) of the house armed services investigations subcommittee is introducing the bill.

In addition to recommending uniform criminal legislation replacing a variety of seldom-used laws, the subcommittee in a report yesterday called on the defense department to issue a code of ethics for retired officers and to draw up regulations against possible abuses in buying.

Golf Parties Cited
The report drew attention to testimony about golf parties in the Bahamas at which the Martin company entertained Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and other high ranking officers.

The report also mentioned the planning, and later canceling, of a dinner by defense contractors at which it said Lt. Gen. Bernard S. Schriever, commanding general of the air research and development command, had been expected to "discuss . . . problems affecting his official position."

The subcommittee said service spokesmen agreed such things should be handled by regulation. "We shall await the next move of the secretaries," it said.

The subcommittee expressed the opinion that advertising of competitive weapons "purporting to show the method of construction, particularly the military effectiveness of a weapon or the economic impact of a cancellation upon employees or subcontractors, is dangerous and unhealthy."

Fate of Old Horses Stirs Britain, Ireland

Wornout Animals Sent to Slaughter Houses On Continent; Storm of Protest Results

Dublin, Ireland —(AP)— More than 200 wornout old horses were on a voyage of death to continental slaughter houses. Behind them a storm of protest mounted in Britain and Ireland.

Headlines in Britain's big-circulation Daily Herald denounced the horse trade as "appalling, sickening, degrading."

British animal lovers demanded a boycott on French and Irish goods. One reader appealed for Pope John XXIII to intervene, pointing out that Ireland is a Catholic country.

The tabloid Daily Sketch sent an emissary to see Irish Prime Minister Sean Lemass to demand his government's intervention. The newspaper said Lemass promised a "searching inquiry."

About 60 Dublin animal lovers picketed the 620-ton ship City of Waterford yesterday as it took aboard 143 horses for killing in Europe. Police stood by but there was no trouble. The horses are being shipped to Dieppe and Amsterdam, to be killed and sold as meat.

In the Irish parliament, Dr. Owen Skeffington asked the government to outlaw the export of live horses for slaughter.

"The whole filthy business is a reflection on the whole of Ireland," Skeffington declared.

Dublin Lord Mayor Philip A. Brady scheduled a talk with government ministers to discuss reports of cruelty to Irish horses once they reach France, Belgium and Holland.

British newspapers started investigating the trade after about a score of horses were swept up on a Welsh beach, their legs still tethered together. They had been washed overboard during a storm at sea while on their way to Europe.

President Will Go To Russia June 10 For 10-Day Visit

He'll See Other Cities Beside Moscow but Choice Not Made

BY MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower's crusade of world travels to promote peace and freedom will take him behind the Iron Curtain into Russia for 10 days starting June 10.

Dates for the president's trip, planned since last summer, were announced yesterday by the White House and the Soviet government.

The United States announcement was made in Albany, Ga., shortly before Eisenhower flew back to Washington after a weekend of quail hunting.

In going to Russia Eisenhower will be returning the 2-week visit which Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made to the United States last September.

May See Stalingrad
The president will go first to Moscow. He also will visit a few other cities in Russia but there has been no final decision as to which ones. He has mentioned wanting to see Stalingrad, which put up such heroic defense against the Nazis in World War II, and Kuibyshev, a wartime military headquarters.

There were no immediate announcements as to whether the president will be accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and their four small grandchildren. Khrushchev invited the youngsters when he met them at the president's Gettysburg, Pa., farm in September.

Diplomatic sources in Moscow said Eisenhower will stay in a guest house in the Kremlin rather than the Kremlin palace. The guest house perhaps will be something like Blair House, the president's guest house where Khrushchev stayed.

Train Hits Bus, 4 Dead, 9 Hurt

Rear Half of Vehicle Dragged Three-Fourths Mile

Fackler, Ala. —(AP)— A local freight train on its homeward swing crashed into a school bus at a dirt road crossing near this north-east Alabama town today. Reports placed four children dead and eight children and the driver critically injured.

Highway Patrolman T. W. Freeman said the train sliced through the bus just behind the middle and dragged the rear half of the wreckage about three-quarters of a mile before it stopped.

140 Cubans on Trial for Plot

Accused of Trying To Bring About Castro's Overthrow

Havana —(AP)— The trial of 140 Cubans charged with plotting to overthrow Fidel Castro continues tonight after opening in an almost holiday atmosphere.

Cheers, instead of the usual sideline calls for the executioner, greeted the defendants Saturday night as the biggest conspiracy trial of the year-old Castro regime got underway. The first 19 defendants to testify pleaded innocent.

The civilian prosecutor sprang a surprise at the outset, announcing he would not demand any death sentences, but the defendants face sentences up to 30 years if convicted.

The 5-man military court is sitting in the 1,300-seat theater of the La Cabana fortress.

Radar Can Detect Missile Launching

New York —(AP)— The naval research laboratory has developed a radar that can see over the horizon and detect missiles as they are launched from submarines, the New York Times said today.

Within the navy, it was reported, the system is being viewed as one answer to the increasing threat of missiles launched from a Soviet submarine fleet.

The navy is hailing the development as one of the most significant breakthroughs in radar technology since radar was developed at the naval laboratory in the 1930s, a Washington dispatch to the Times added. The British about the same time were perfecting radar independently.

The new radar, the story said, has been given the code name of Project Madre (standing for magnetic drum

Odd Things Happening In This Home

Baltimore —(AP)— Strange things are happening at the Jones house on Meridene drive.

Flower pots leaping through window panes, wall pictures crashing to the floor, pottery exploding and plants jumping out of their holders.

It's been going on for four days, according to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar G. Jones.

"I'll tell you, it's got us crazy," says Mrs. Jones. "We're scared to death. I've gotten so frightened I don't know what to do. I can't express my feelings to anyone."

Jones says it all started when 15 miniature pottery pitchers "exploded" on a shelf in the dining room. There was no apparent reason.

This touched off a 4-day chain reaction of weird events. Jones says a sugar bowl moved up four feet from the table and deposited its contents in the candle holders of the chandelier, a brass incense burner flew off a bookshelf and landed six feet away, drinking glasses toppled off their shelves and ash trays fell from tables.

No one in the family has seen the objects move. "We hear the crashes but we've never been around when they happen," said Jones.

One or Two Men Killed?

Mystery Develops in Another Plane Crash

Tampa, Fla. —(AP)— Was a the babies?

Dallas naturopath with a criminal record on a national airlines plane which crashed into the Gulf of Mexico, killing all 42 aboard?

Or did Dr. Robert V. Spears persuade — perhaps hypnotize — a Tampa man into taking his place?

Or were both aboard the ill-fated plane which plunged into the water on Nov. 16?

The Tampa, missing since the day of the crash, was William Allen Taylor, 60, who was sentenced to prison with Dr. Spears in 1936 for operating a confidence scheme.

Taylor's divorced wife, Mrs. Alice Steele Taylor of Tampa, said Dr. Spears was a hypnotist.

"I'm sure my former husband got on that plane instead of Spears," she said last night. "It's even possible that my ex-husband was hypnotized to get on that plane."

But in Dallas, Mrs. Spears said she's sure that if her 60-year-old husband were alive he'd be here with me and holds the answer.

Up Gasoline Tax, Postage, He Asks

BY FRANK CORMIER

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower today sent congress his election year budget and said it promises a $4,184,000,000 surplus that can pave the way for a tax cut, possibly next year.

For the present, however, Eisenhower proposed raising more revenue. He said congress should increase the federal gasoline tax by a half a cent a gallon—to 4½ cents—and add a penny each to the 4-cent letter charge and the 7-cent air mail rate.

The president implied that unless congress votes these and other revenue measures—and resists any urge to boost spending—the predicted surplus will melt away and with it, hopes of broad scale tax relief sometime after the November election.

For the 1961 fiscal year that begins July 1, Eisenhower estimated record revenues of $84 billion. He called for spending of $79,816,000,000.

This would produce the biggest surplus in 13 years—a margin of black ink which the president said should be used to reduce the record national debt of $292 billion. He said a debt cut would counter inflation and spur savings needed to stimulate new economic growth.

Eisenhower said the projected spending level will permit small increases in both

Civilians Not Subject to U. S. Military Trials

Washington —(AP)— The supreme court ruled today that civilian employees of the armed services and civilian dependents of military personnel overseas cannot be subjected to military trial.

The court extended a 1957 decision in which it had held that dependents of military personnel could not be court-martialed for capital crimes overseas.

Today's decision extended the ruling to include civilians accused of lesser crimes.

This broader ruling was given in a series of four cases.

Justice Clark wrote the four majority opinions in the cases.

Ike Studies Details Of Japanese Treaty

Pact Arouses Considerable Hard Feelings in East Over Signing; Brings Nation Equal to America

Washington — (AP) — While Japanese prime minister Nobusuke Kishi planned a day of relaxation here, President Eisenhower called in top advisers today for consultations on the signing of a new Japanese-American treaty.

The treaty of security and mutual cooperation, scheduled to be signed tomorrow, has aroused considerable opposition in Japan.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Jr., and U. S. ambassador to Japan Douglas MacArthur II were to confer with Kishi.

Plan Session
Eisenhower and Kishi plan an hour and a half session at the White House before the formal signing of the treaty, which raises Japan, a defeated World War II enemy, to a status equal to America's NATO allies.

Kishi, who may play a round of golf today if weather permits, arrived Sunday night at Washington National airport. He was greeted by Herter and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon's appearance was a surprise. He had to hurry back from Miami for the airport ceremonies.

Answering charges by Japanese leftists who violently opposed his visit to Washington, Kishi said:

"The ends we seek are to strengthen our collaboration on a broad basis and to enable our partnership to contribute more usefully and effectively to the cause of world peace and human progress."

The communist nations also opposed the new treaty and Kishi's trip. They claim the treaty means the United States and Japan are planning what the communists call "new aggressions" in the Far East.

Russia's Pravda said recent events in Japan showed that Kishi left for the United States "without receiving a visa from the Japanese people."

Railway President Dies at 89 Years

Roanoke, Va. — (AP) — William Jackson Jenks, a farmer's son who grew up with the Norfolk and Western railway, and for 10 years served as its president, died Sunday at his home. Jenks, 89, died Sunday at his home. Jenks was N&W president from 1936 to 1946, and after that was the chairman of the railway's board of directors from 1946 to 1953. He remained a director until 1958.

Funeral services will be Thursday at a local funeral home. Surviving are his wife, a daughter, one grandchild and a great-grandchild.

President Suggests State Indian Aid

Washington — (AP) — President Eisenhower's recommendation to congress today for an increase in appropriations for Indian programs included $150,000 for financing operation of the Klamath and Menominee Indian agencies in Wisconsin.

The money would be used during a period of terminating federal supervision over property held by the two tribes. The amount is $100,000 under this year's appropriation.

Expect France To Explode 1st A-Bomb

Test Will Take Place in Sahara Desert Any Day

Paris — (AP) — France is expected to explode her first atomic weapon in the Sahara any day now. A successful blast will put France in the nuclear weapon club restricted so far to the United States, Russia and Britain.

The French defense ministry warned planes flying over the African desert to stay clear of certain areas beginning today. Speculation arose that the French were waiting only for favorable weather.

The device set off will be atomic, not a more powerful hydrogen-bomb weapon. The French are not believed to have reached the latter stage in their nuclear development.

Warn Airlines
Airliners flying over the Sahara — mostly French and British — were warned to stay clear of a zone around Reggane, one of the Touat oases in central Algeria. The site is about 600 miles from the Mediterranean coast and about the same distance from the Atlantic.

Planes flying over the rest of the French Sahara were advised to remain above 10,000 feet, avoid certain other areas and keep in radio contact with French authorities.

The French announcement gave no time limit for the regulations, saying only that they would be in force "for the months to come."

The French have pushed determinedly ahead with development of an atomic weapon despite intense opposition to the Sahara tests from independent African nations and two resolutions by the U. N. Assembly opposing the Sahara tests.

Ghana, Tunisia and other African nations expressed fear the French explosions would contaminate African areas with dangerous radioactivity. The French gave assurance that radioactivity would be confined to a small area and that there would be no danger to other areas.

Popularity Bad for Dog, Doctor Says

So claims Dr. William C. Glenney, an Ardmore, Pa., veterinarian.

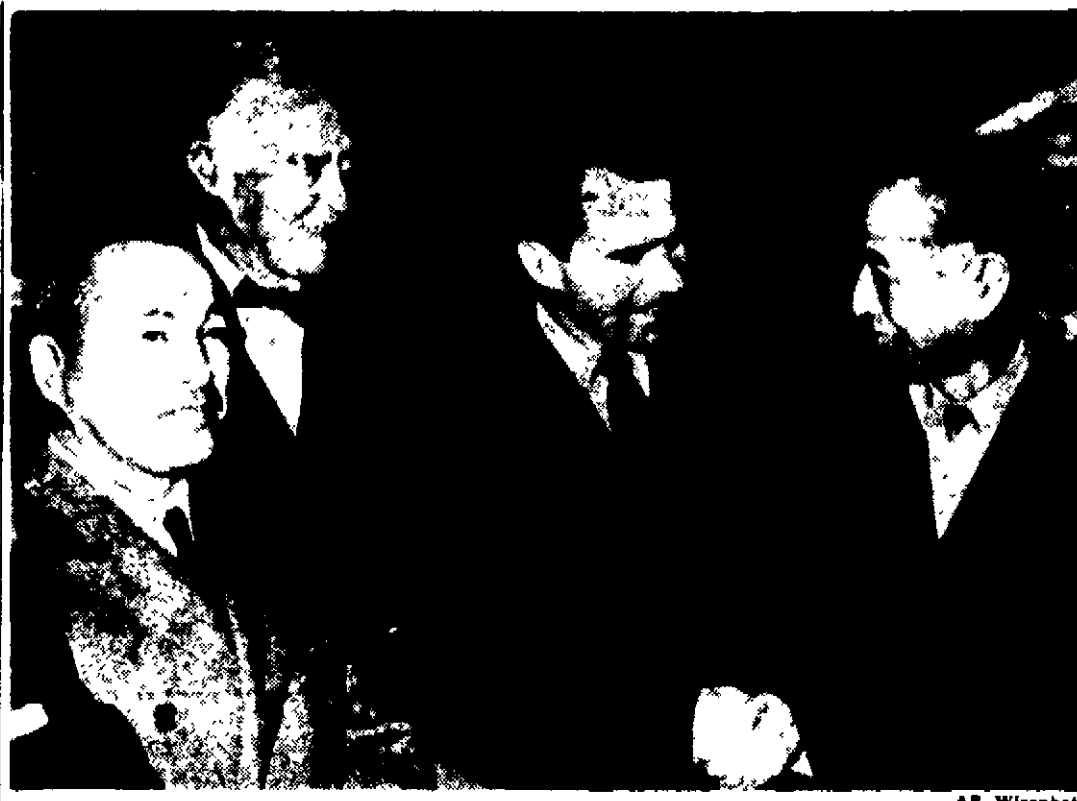

As a strain of dogs comes into public favor, said Dr. Glenney, it is soon weakened to a point that only poor and sickly dogs are produced.

"When you say cocker spaniel to me I think of a snarling, mean, bad strain of dog," he told a newsman, adding:

"That's because the breeding was not selective. Popularity produces non-selective breeding which gives you shy, retiring, hysterical, poorly formed dogs."

Dr. Glenney, here to address a regional meeting of the American Animal Hospital association, said the highly sensitive dogs produced by this poor breeding are the reasons dog tranquilizers are so popular today.

It is one way of keeping the animal quiet and gentle enough to be a house pet, he added.

Check Love Triangle Possibility in Death

Service Station Operator Last to See Woman Professor Alive in Car

Baton Rouge, La. — (AP) — The possibility of a love triangle was raised today in the slaying of Dr. Margaret McMillan.

Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot said the state thought it had a plausible motive why the 39-year-old unwed biology professor was hacked to death on a lonely country road.

"You have one professor and another professor and he is married," Favrot said. "There is bound to be a triangle."

The other professor is Dr. George H. Mickey, 49, suspended dean of the Louisiana State university graduate school here. Dr. Mickey, married, and the father of two children, has been charged with the slaying of Dr. McMillan, his friend for several years, who taught at LSU's New Orleans branch.

Close Relationship
Defense lawyer Robert Kleinpetter said there was no possibility of a love affair between the two. "It was a close relationship between two scientists," he said. "Favrot is talking through his hat."

A few hours before Dr. McMillan died of 13 blows on the head, she drove into a service station with a man to buy gas, according to James S. Versen, manager of a station near the front gate of the LSU campus here.

Versen is the last person known to have seen her alive. He said she and a man drove into his station between 6:45 and 8 p.m. Jan. 9. Her death was placed at 12:45 the next morning.

The day after Mickey's arrest, Favrot said the dean was arrested when the state found his alibi for the night of Jan. 9 was without foundation.

Also, Favrot said, "Spots of fresh human blood of the same type as that of the deceased" were found on Mickey's car, a Chevrolet.

Dr. McMillan owned a foreign car and her body was found beside the auto near the Baton Rouge campus.

Versen said Dr. McMillan was driving an American car when she came into his station. He added that she paid for the gas with her credit card and signed the bill.

He said he had waited on Dr. McMillan twice before when she was driving her foreign car and recognized her by "her smile and her glasses."

Albert Kober, owner of the station, told reporters he did not know who the man in the car was and neither got out of the car.

State Cheese Seized for Anti-Biotics

Milwaukee — (AP) — A University of Wisconsin chemistry professor said Friday night within the last two years at least two shipments of Wisconsin cheese made with milk from cows treated with penicillin have been seized by the federal government.

But spokesmen for the state department of agriculture and the Wisconsin cheese industry said there is no major problem in Wisconsin and the public is and has been fully protected.

Dr. Aaron Ihde, who disclosed the seizures, said the cheese was found to contain large concentrations of staphylococcus germs. Dr. Ihde made the statement in a speech last night before the Milwaukee section of the American Chemical society.

Donald McDowell, state department of agricultural director, commented in Madison farmers had been alerted to the problem and the dairy industry is doing everything in its power to make its products perfectly safe for the consumer.

5 Killed on State Roads Over Weekend

Death Toll of 33 Less Than Last Year at This Time

Milwaukee — (AP) — Five persons were killed in Wisconsin highway accidents during the weekend, including a father and three of his children who died in a car and train collision.

The deaths raised the state's 1960 toll to 33, one less than on this same day a year ago.

John Osborne, 76, a farmer who lives near Grand Marsh in Adams county, and his three youngest children, Donna, 12; Kenneth, 11; and Larry, 7, were killed Saturday when the truck in which they were riding was struck broadside by a Chicago and North Western freight train.

Authorities said the crossing in the village of Grand Marsh was protected by flashing red lights and a warning bell. The weather was clear and the road dry.

Dr. Arthur R. Weihe, Adams county coroner, said the engineer of the train, Lloyd Towner, of Adams, told him that Osborne stopped the pickup truck on the tracks seconds before the crash.

Theodore Miller, 71, Weyerhaeuser, was killed Saturday when his car and truck collided on Highway 8 in front of his home.

2,000 Reindeer Face Starvation in Norway

Oslo — (AP) — Two thousand reindeer face starvation in the Tiselfjorden area of central Norway.

The animals belong to a group of farmers and have not yet found a winter feeding area. Leaders of the herd have died, the five herds have lost control, and there is no feed in the snowy area where the herd is now wandering.

The department of agriculture is investigating to see if anything can be done for the animals.

Nixon Sticks Closely To Eisenhower Policy Line in First Talks

Refuses to Take Stand on Voting Registrars in Florida Appearance

Washington — (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is sticking closely to the Eisenhower administration policy line in his first appearance as an active GOP presidential aspirant.

Nixon's refusal during a weekend visit to Florida to take a stand on a proposal for the establishment of federal voting registrars emphasized the care he is exercising to stay within the administration fold at this time.

The voting registrar proposal, recommended by the Civil Rights commission, was up for discussion today before the senate rules committee.

It has the support of civil rights advocates in both parties, it represents a potentially explosive issue in this year's campaign.

While President Eisenhower called on congress in his state of the union message to consider the commission's recommendations, he told his news conference last week he doesn't know if the registrar proposal is constitutional. He said he wants it studied.

Takes Same Line
Nixon took the same line as the president, although he had been urged by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) to come out for the proposal.

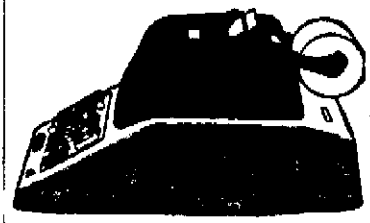

Nixon followed the administration's policy line of opposing any arms reductions in response to Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement of a Russian military manpower cut.

On the issue of federal aid to education, which the Democrats expect to exploit in the current session of congress, the vice president backed the Eisenhower view. He said it looks good on paper but won't work.

Associates said Nixon's strategy as the only announced candidate for the GOP presidential nomination is to link himself closely to the Eisenhower policies until after the Chicago convention in July.

Once he has the nomination,

West Berlin In Protest Demonstrations

3,000 at Rally,
Other Anti-Semitism
Outbreaks Noted

Berlin —(U)— West Berliners today joined in the round of protest demonstrations in Europe against anti-Semitism. Big protest parades were held Sunday in London and in Italy.

About 3,000 Germans attended a rally in west Berlin's steinplatz. Police arrested 10 university students for raising placards at the rally calling for the ouster of government officials accused of having Nazi records.

Sen. Joachim Lipschitz, who was addressing the rally, halted his speech when he saw the placards raised, assuming they came from communist east Berlin. But police reports said the 10 arrested were from West Germany. Their backgrounds are being checked.

Oust Ex-nazis
The communist East German news agency ADN came out immediately with a charge that Lipschitz had set the police on the students. The demand that ex-nazis be ousted from responsible positions in West Germany has been voiced by the press and political groups in Germany as well as elsewhere in Europe.

This was one demand made at a big protest rally in London Sunday. The German government has promised

Cites Danger of Planes Carrying Nuclear Bombs

San Francisco —(U)— If military planes on patrol with nuclear bombs crack up and burn they can become a health hazard, says a veteran expert on radiation hazard.

In the six accidents in the United States involving such nuclear-armed planes in the past two years there was no release of radiation, he said, but the danger is real.

Dr. Robert R. Newell told a symposium on air pollution the navy has teams of scientists and technicians on both coasts which can fly on short notice to the scene of any such accident and help prevent the spread of radiation.

Dr. Newell, an emeritus professor of medicine at Stanford university, is a consultant to the navy radiological defense laboratory here.

The main danger in such accidents, he said, is that the plutonium used in nuclear weapons will burn with the plane, and rise in the air in the form of smoke and add its radioactivity to existing fallout materials.

Car Thief Shot In Gun Battle

Los Angeles —(U)— A suspected car thief died in a spectacular gun battle involving 70 policemen.

He was not identified immediately.

The gunman died of a bullet wound in the head after officers fired into the apartment in which he had taken refuge Sunday. He still clutched a .32-caliber pistol when police found him sprawled on the floor.

A few minutes earlier, the suspect had fired five shots from a second story window and had challenged police to come and get him.

Officers fired tear gas shells and then broke into the building.

up moving targets as far away as 2,600 miles.

From a technical standpoint, Project MADRE is expected to open up a new approach in radar. There is now a method to get extremely long range with relatively low power. This can replace the present technique of building ever bigger antennas and ever more powerful transmitters to extend range.

Detection Fence
Project MADRE, form a military standpoint, is expected to fill in many of the gaps—particularly on the sea frontiers—in the missile-bombardment network surrounding the continental United States.

A few MADRE stations along the eastern seaboard of Canada as well as the United States could provide a detection fence reaching halfway across the Atlantic from the equator to the Arctic.

In addition to being a protection against missiles launched from submarines, the MADRE system also offers possibilities of detecting low-flying bombers, which are a troublesome problem for present radar.

MADRE transmits signals in the high frequency band of 3 to 30 megacycles and they are reflected back to earth by the ionosphere—the electrical layer in the earth's upper atmosphere.

Radical Change
The relatively low frequencies used by MADRE illustrate what a radical departure it represents in radar technology. Until now, the emphasis in radar development has been to achieve ever higher frequencies, ranging up to 10,000 megacycles. Extremely powerful transmitters were needed, thereby raising technical and cost problems.

Radar thus far had been unable to take advantage of the long-range reflecting property of the ionosphere because its extremely high frequency signals passed right on through the ionized layer rather than being reflected.

The magnetic drum receiving equipment that gives MADRE its name was developed for the naval laboratory by the General Electric company. On this drum are recorded the pulses transmitted by the radar at a rate of 180 a second and the signals received back from targets.

The information on the drum is put on a display device, such as an oscilloscope or cathode ray tube. A hump in the pattern of the transmitted signal means that a target has been picked up.

Script Writers Go on Strike

Hollywood —(U)— Striking script writers join with non-striking actors today in contract talks with the movie and TV studios.

At issue are the fees demanded by both writers and actors for post-1948 films sold to television.

Eighty screen writers went on strike against the movie studios at midnight Saturday, 24 hours after 500 TV script writers struck.

No further strike action is anticipated before Jan. 31 when the actors' contract expires.

Curtis Kenyon, president of the western division of the Writers Guild, said there were no plans to set up picket lines. He added that the writers' strike probably would have little immediate effect since producers have a large backlog of scripts. A strike by the actors, however, could put a serious kink in production from Hollywood.

Double Celebration For Elderly Couple

Point Pleasant, N. J. —(U)— Henry Roth and his wife, Ida, celebrated Sunday: his 100th birthday and their 73rd wedding anniversary.

The retired carpenter and his 93-year-old wife were asked whether they had ever thought about age. "No," said Roth, "and now is no time to start."

President to Start Russian Visit June 10

chev stayed during his Washington visit.

Pressure Continues
Eisenhower's trip will be part of his campaign of worldwide travel in behalf of what he terms "peace and friendship—in freedom."

Last Aug. 3 when the president announced plans for the Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchange of visits, he expressed hope that the trips would help thaw the cold war ice.

Khrushchev's two weeks in this country seem to have made no basic improvement in relations, and now he is pushing a new pressure drive to force the western leaders to give up protection of West Berlin.

That will be a main issue at the Paris summit conference starting May 16, less than a month before Eisenhower's arrival in Russia. The president, Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle will meet with Khrushchev at the Paris session.

White House aides expect Eisenhower to return to Washington between the Paris conference and his trip to the Soviet Union. Press Sec. James C. Hagerty said recently he knew of no plans for the president to visit some Far East countries en route home from Russia.

As Eisenhower's schedule now stands, the June visit to the Soviet Union will be his fifth trip outside the United States in 94 months.

Late last summer he went to West Germany, England, France and Scotland. In December he made a 22,000-mile tour to 11 nations in Europe, Asia and Africa. Next month he will visit four countries in South America.

State Projects Proposed by Ike

Washington —(U)—These appropriations for flood control, navigation and reclamation projects in Wisconsin were proposed by President Eisenhower today in his budget for the 12 months beginning July 1.

Milwaukee harbor, outer harbor reimbursement $7,000,000; Army engineer projects, planning: Mellen, $13,000; Olanah, $21,000; Eau Claire river, $250,000.

Three Holdouts in Prison Hunger Strike

Point of the Mountain, Utah —(U)— Utah State prison authorities waited today for three remaining holdouts to abandon a hunger strike they and 16 other inmates launched Jan. 10.

Five others gave up the fast Sunday, after a week of going without meals. Others had started eating earlier.

All 19 are in a disciplinary cellblock. They refused food in protest after prison officials cut them to two meals a day as further punishment for rule infractions.

4 Space Tests Planned for Fiscal Year

BY VERN HAUGLAND

Washington —(U)— The civilian space agency plans to launch four deep space probes and eight scientific satellites during the next fiscal year.

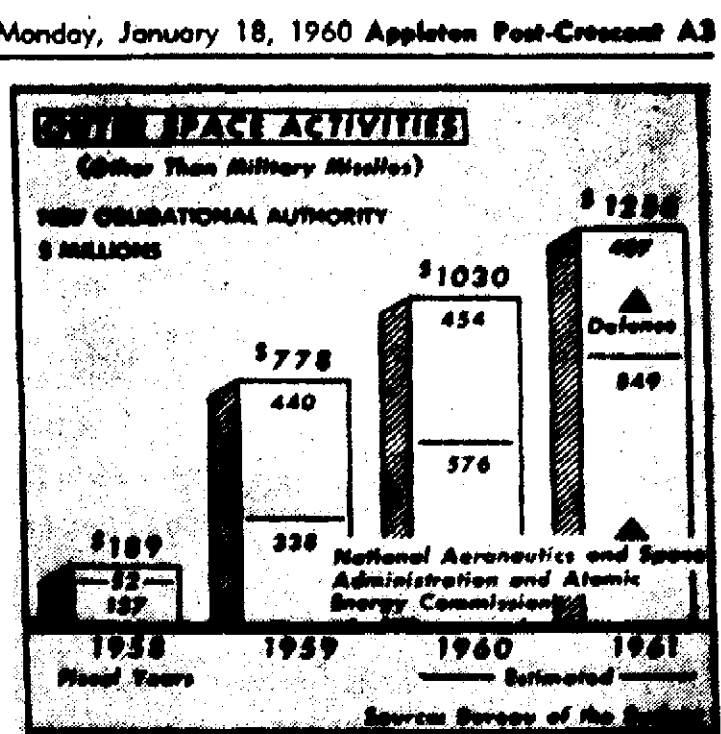

The plans were set forth today in President Eisenhower's budget message to congress. It said the spending program of the national aeronautics and space administration will be nearly doubled next year, to a new level of $600 million.

To finance this and long-range projects of future years, Eisenhower asked new appropriations of $802 million. He proposed also a supplemental appropriation for 1960 of $23 million to restore substantially the congressional reduction of the space program last year.

More Complex
The launching of four probes toward the moon or the planets, along with the eight satellite ventures, is not a great advance in numbers from the current program—and it's a rate NASA hopes to continue for the years ahead. But the new satellites and probes will be more complex, and will be designed to gather more advanced information.

"The areas receiving primary emphasis in 1961 are the manned space flight program—Project Mercury—and the development of very high thrust boosters . . . under the Saturn and related projects," Eisenhower said. "In Project Mercury, if the preliminary tests and experiments continued to be successful, actual manned space flights may be attempted in 1961."

Completion of a space vehicle system using very high thrust boosters is still several years in the future, he said, but substantial progress is expected during the year in developing some of the needed parts.

This Chart Illustrates government outlays for outer space activities—other than military missiles—for the fiscal years 1958 through 1961. It appeared with President Eisenhower's annual budget message to congress.

River of Lava Continues Flow

Honolulu —(U)— A fiery river of lava continued its flow to the sea from Kilauea volcano today after hard-working bulldozer crews prevented it from engulfing Warm Spring resort Sunday.

The crews pushed up a 20-foot dike to divert the molten rock shortly before a new fountain from the main lava flow shot lava and pumice to 1,700 feet. The main flow is near the evacuated village of Kapoho, three miles from Warm Springs.

Guided tours to the Kapoho area were permitted again.

John Drew Barrymore In Hollywood Hospital

Hollywood —(U)— Actor John Drew Barrymore is reported in satisfactory condition after being hospitalized for treatment of a liver ailment.

A spokesman said Barrymore, 27, has hepatitis. He was admitted to the hospital Friday.

Sunday after fumes and punishment stopped, Kilauea is on Hawaii island, largest in the Archipelago and 200 miles southeast of Honolulu.

The lava flow has destroyed two homes and a fish pond. No further property damage is anticipated.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Mass Inoculation For Diphtheria

Pocatello, Idaho —(U)— Health officials launched mass inoculations for an estimated 19,000 students and adults today after confirmation of Pocatello's first case of diphtheria—the tenth in eastern Idaho in less than three weeks.

The outbreak brought a weekend warning that diphtheria germs may have been carried into six other states by people who attended a funeral in Soda Springs, Idaho, last week. Present at the funeral was Merle J. Quigley, 22, Pocatello, the tenth person to come down with the disease since New Year's eve.

Dr. Victor L. Overholt, director of the district health department, asked health officials in Wyoming, Utah, Montana, Oregon, Nevada and California to contact those who attended the funeral.

Edgar Allen Poe Has Horrible Few Minutes

Detroit —(U)— Edgar Allen Poe, 25, had the sort of experience his poet namesake might have written about. . . a horrible few minutes.

Poe was among a group at a tavern when two men held up the place. One put a pistol against Poe's head and said: "I will kill this man unless you will do as you're told."

The men fled with about $207, leaving a shaken Poe.

TV Gunslinger Also Author Of Hit Song

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood — You never would have suspected that the tall, good-looking gunslinger on the western set was also the man who perpetrated "Purple People Eater."

They are one and the same, bearing the improbable name of Sheb Wooley.

"It's a contraction of Shelby," he explains. The western half of his well-split personality is one of the stars of the TV show "Rawhide."

The hour drama shoots at MGM and I dropped by to ask Sheb about his double career. Which came first?

Actor First
"The TV series," he replied. "At least I signed up for it before 'Purple People Eater' broke. I didn't know whether the show would sell or not. It did, and I was stuck with it."

"The result was that I wasn't able to cash in on the success of the record. I had to pass up a lot of TV spots and a tour of Australia. Still, I'm not unhappy about it. The series brings in a steady income and keeps me at home. I have a wife and child, and if I were strictly in the music business, I'd be traveling most of the time."

Even though he alternates with other stars in the series, "Rawhide" keeps him working pretty steadily. He likes it. You can't do it between the work, but it does interfere with his songwriting career.

Sheb has been acting in films since 1950, got his biggest notice as one of the killers in "High Noon." Then he kept rattling around in my mind because I don't have the time to sit down and develop records here and overseas.

New Recordings Honor Hawaii as 50th State

Music by Island Favorites,
Special Effects in One Album

BY HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Hawaii, the nation's 50th state, is being given a rousing welcome by the recording industry. Capitol loaded microphones and a battery of electronic equipment into an outrigger canoe to record the excitement of a giant liner arriving in Honolulu harbor.

The special effect was created for "Island Paradise," a deluxe, full color album with liner notes by author James Michener, and authentic Hawaii music by island favorites.

Including Father McDonald's St. Catherine's choir, Mahi Baemer, Hauanani and Kepena Wong. All numbers were recorded on the spot on the islands of Oahu, Maui, Kauai and Hawaii.

Michener, whose massive 843-novel "Hawaii" was published this month by Random House, had enough words left over to get into the act at Columbia too.

Notes by Michener

He penned the liner notes for "Lure of Paradise," lulling mood music by Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra.

In another Columbia salute to the newest state, a Hawaiian with the unlikely named of Ed Kenney leads a beautiful baritone voice to such traditional island favorites as "Hawaiian Wedding Song," "Aloha Oe," "Lille E" and "Fish and Poi."

Kenney, now playing the singing lead in the Rogers and Hammerstein Broadway hit "Flower Drum Song," is Irish and Swedish on his father's side, Hawaiian and Chinese on his mother's side. He was born in the shadow of Kalahele mountain.

Family Song

The words to the song "Kalahele" were written by his maternal great grandmother, Kealikuaina Kahanu, whose name means "Chief of the Land," and the music was composed by his grandmother, Kaleialoha Kahanu, whose name means "Wreath of Love."

Authentic Hawaiian instruments, including the nose flute and the ipu, a gourd-like instrument, are woven into the excellent background music by Luther Henderson and his orchestra.

Like James Michener, San Makia also manages to double dip in the melodic Hawaiian surf.

British Censors Ban 3 Anti-Nazi Movies

London — British board of film censors has banned the showing of three anti-Nazi movies in this country, but it faces stiff opposition.

Chief Censor John Trevelyan refused to grant a certificate for the showing of "Operation Spindel," "Holiday on Sylt" and "A Diary for Annie."

"They attack living persons without giving their side of the case," he explained.

It marks the first time British censors have banned politically controversial movies.

Stanley Forman, whose plan to Films company was refused certificates for the three movies, said:

"In view of recent events we are demanding that he lift this ban. The public has a right to see these films. If Mr. Trevelyan still refuses, we will circularize every local authority in the country urging them to override him and issue their own certificates."

Indians Protest Portrayal on TV

Fort Gibson, Okla. — A group of American Indians is on the warpath over all that redskin blood being spilled in television westerns.

Fifty braves and chiefs from 11 tribes held a pow-wow here Tuesday night aimed at defending the redman's reputation from the ravages of shoot 'em up TV.

They issued a call to Indians all over the country to battle "television's persistent erroneous portrayal of Indian history."

"Television makes the younger generation think that Indians were only savages," complained Choctaw Jack Davidson. "The Indians only protected their homes. Television never tells about the cultural advances of the American Indians."

The Indians plan to protest television westerns to President Eisenhower and heads of telephone networks.

Real Home Built for Novak Movie

Honeymoon House of Actress, Director

BY JAMES BACON
AP Movie, TV Writer

Hollywood — (U) — They're building a livable home for a Kim Novak movie and the grapevine says it will be the honeymoon house of the actress and director Richard Quine.

The contractor estimates the market value of the property and house at $250,000. It's perched on a hilltop in Bel-Air and there is no swankier address in this land of millionaires.

The house is an integral part of the plot of "Strangers When We Meet," starring Miss Novak, Kirk Douglas and Barbara Rush.

Quine's cousin, Tom, a Los Angeles contractor, is building the house, using his regular crews. Movie carpenters, used to building things that can easily be torn down, are not involved in the actual house construction.

Mum About Plans
Kim's steady date is director Quine. His wife gets her final divorce decree in March. Until the divorce, Kim is mum about any marriage plans.

"I certainly am very fond of Dick," she admits. "But as for marriage, I can't say right now."

Intimates say the beautiful Chicago blonde is more smitten with Quine than any of her previous boy friends, including Cary Grant and Aly Khan.

Quine, one of the top young directors in the business, is as mum as Kim on marriage plans.

But he does confirm that he's buying the house when the picture's completed.

'Legislators, Go Home!'

Gov. Nelson has admitted that he has lost a round in the confusing political battle in the state legislature that has stretched the session far beyond the usual duration, and we suspect, somewhat beyond the patience of the legislators' constituents.

In language blunt and angry, the governor has advised the legislature to go home because it is accomplishing nothing, and to return in late spring as the Republican state senate has obdurately insisted during the long deadlock in the upper house.

Standing alone, the governor's impatient speech was understandable. No governor likes to have a legislature at the capitol indefinitely. It is an inherent interference with the usual processes of administration. This stalemate, moreover, had produced some signs that the Democratic administration, rather than its political opposition in one of the legislature's houses, was being blamed in public opinion for the sterile record that had been accumulating.

Yet the tangled skein of party politics at the capitol cannot be understood without a recapitulation of the background, including the essential fact that the senate GOP opponents of the governor are in effect supporting what was originally the governor's plan of procedure.

It was the governor who originated the idea of a thorough-going review of the state's tax and finance problems, and set up a so-called "blue ribbon" citizens commission for the task. It was the governor who related his original fiscal plans to the expected report of that commission, and who got a good deal of appreciation from thoughtful citizens for his courage and imagination in taking the initiative on this necessary course.

But it also was the governor who concluded later that the job was too big to complete quickly, that he wanted to put over the commission report to a future legislature, and then in second thought asked the legislature to enact temporary, or as he put it, stop-gap, tax measures for this budget biennium.

He now complains that the Republican opposition to his immediate tax program is blindly partisan and selfishly obstructionist.

No doubt these Republican legislators are not above playing a little politics. But there are those who may also suspect that the governor's motives were not entirely divorced from politics. Perhaps he realized that he didn't want to defend a tax revision program after all, and surely not when it was likely to be offered by his own commission in uncomfortable proximity to a political campaign.

Conceding the likelihood that the elected officer in the executive office and the elected politicians in the senate are motivated by political concern, at least in part, what of the merit of the argument that the legislature should await the citizens' commission report?

The governor says, as an afterthought, that this report is likely to be so voluminous and complex and involve so many subtle and difficult points of public policy that it will require a long siege of publicity and public discussion and popular education before the legislature will get its bearings and dare to act upon it.

There is some merit in that claim, although the governor thought of it rather late it will seem to some critics.

But there also is some merit in the claim that if the legislature defers final budget action now it will represent a slight but nevertheless effective pressure upon this commission to keep at its job without dallying, and at the same time dramatize to its members and to the public the ultimate significance of its job. Should the legislature take tax action now, and defer tax revision to 1961, it may very well limp along for another year, and find its conclusions ignored and its report lost by the succeeding legislature. That was the fate of several other similar studies in the past.

The immediate quarrel between the Democratic governor and the Republican upper house of the legislature is a detail, similar to many others in our recent history, and differing only in degree. The big challenge in state politics today is the commanding necessity for basic tax reorganization, and the danger is that partisan rivalry at Madison will obscure it.

We have made splendid progress toward that goal thus far, almost astonishing progress, and Gov. Nelson deserves a good deal of the credit for the fact.

We have put on the record, in the research findings of this study commission, facts and conclusions that will make our future public discussions more honest and realistic, even if they are not immediately reflected in statute law.

From an outside view, this deadlock between a Democratic governor and a Republican senate may actually turn out to be a good thing — if it contributes toward a constructive revision of Wisconsin public finance. The outlines of such a promise are visible. The governor has repeatedly said he will accept the commission's findings if they are reasonably palatable. The obdurate resistance by the Republican legislators to immediate tax action, it seems to us, implies at the least, a Republican pledge to take that forthcoming report seriously also.

Let the legislature adjourn until May, and let the study commission do its level best to turn in an account of its work by that time, and let us hope for constructive tax revision later.

Keep That Powder Dry, Ikel

What Others are Saying

By Plotters or Hooligans, Swastikas are an Outrage

From The Chicago Daily News

It is useless to deny that there are pockets of anti-Semitism in the United States and elsewhere. Other groups, national, racial and religious, are also the targets of hateful prejudice.

There are localities where hill people are savagely suspicious of outsiders, places where "farmer" is a term of contempt. The groups that are victims of these prejudices, being human, doubtless also contain some individuals with an irrational dislike of those who differ from themselves.

There is likewise nothing new in daubing public buildings with expressions of prejudice. "Yanks Go Home" has appeared in innumerable spots and languages. This sort of vandalism ranges down to the "Beat Yale" smeared following the hyper-enthusiasm of a football rally.

But the swastikas that have appeared on Jewish temples in Chicago and other cities here and abroad are different in one overwhelming and terrible respect. This ancient crooked cross adopted by the Nazis symbolizes the persecution that led to the deaths of six million people in the most hideous mass crime in all history.

To take it calmly would be like saying that the American flag is merely an inexpensive piece of bunting, so why worry if someone tramples it in the mud.

In view of the unspeakable butcheries of the Nazis, the appearance of swastikas in Germany was understandable by a sort of sad irony, however, the outbreaks elsewhere over the world lessen, rather than intensify, the alarm.

While we have moronic, degraded and scarcely sane racists among us in Chicago, they are so few as to constitute no real threat. The problem is to confine the infection.

Most psychiatrists seem to blame the outbreak of temple desecration on young hooligans less interested in anti-Semitism than finding excitement in a shocking type of vandalism. This would explain why it spread so far and fast, like panty raids or goldfish-eating a few years ago.

The German government has acted promptly and sternly to punish the perpetrators that were apprehended. They are not easy to catch, but the Bonn authorities have set an example that all others should follow.

Jewish leaders, in their deep concern, speculate upon the possibility that the outbreak, beginning in Germany, signified the emergence of new Nazis. Others wonder if it might not be a Communist plot, engineered for the precise purpose of inciting fear, hatred and division.

At this point the evidence is scanty, but with logic suggesting spontaneous hooliganism. That is frightening enough, but less so than a conclusion of an organized program.

If this is true, and we avoid hysteria, the wave should subside.

We devoutly hope that the world-wide cry of outrage has been heard by the whole gamut of vandals. It should restrain the really slaving anti-Semites through fear, and convince the hoodlums that there are some depths of depravity that are scarcely human.

The outrage and the concern are amply justified. The germs of the monstrous disease spread by Adolf Hitler still exist; they must never be allowed to multiply.

Sales Tax Looks Like Only Way Out

From The Albuquerque Journal

With the space race with Russia continuing, there's little prospect of any cuts in the national defense spending, or other substantial reductions. It all means that there is no prospect for any relief for the taxpayers from the present high income taxes, unless perhaps a new form of tax is devised such as a sales tax, which has been suggested.

That, however, appears improbable.

Looking Backward

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Jan. 22, 1881.

The members of the legislature will act very unwisely if they consent to the establishment of another state normal school. It is not needed.

In fact, we have one too many already. Whitewater, Oshkosh and River Falls furnish enough opportunities and facilities for all who desire to make teaching a profession, and it would be wiser to discontinue the one at Appleton young man under 35 years of age for the distinguished service award medal offered annually through the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Organization of a new science group, the General Science club, was launched at Lawrence college by Dr. Herbert L. Davis, associate professor of chemistry and was to include department groups such as the Botany club and Chemistry club.

Dr. W. J. Frawley was named chairman of the Appleton committee which was to arrange a birthday ball in honor of President Roosevelt on Jan. 30.

The Securities and Exchange commission, having liberalized its regulations, estimated that more than $3,000,000,000 in stocks and bonds could be floated under the new rules. The hope was expressed that they would speed business expansion.

Monday, Jan. 16, 1950
"Operation Rowboat" evacuated an estimated 600 to 1,000 ice fishermen off Lake Winnebago Sunday from Fond du Lac north to Neenah, when a crack opened up along the west shore of the lake to a width of 45 to 200 feet. Borrowed boats were rowed across the water to bring the stranded fishermen ashore.

President Truman asked congress to pass a new, 10-year law as insurance against a rubber shortage in another war. The president wants authority to start shifting at least part of the government's $700,000,000 synthetic rubber industry to private ownership. He also said there must be enough production in an emergency for "adequate protection of the national security."

Everett Stecker was elected recording secretary and Arthur Lemke was named financial secretary of the Zion Lutheran church congregation.

Harvey Pekel was named president of the Couples club of St. Matthew church. Other officers were: Walter Radatz, vice president, Gus Schroeder, secretary, and Elmer Rinzmann, treasurer.

Art Jacobson was elected president of Trinity Lutheran church of Menasha.

More Democrats Get Nelson Appointments

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The patronage policies of the new Democratic state administration show an intriguing pattern.

In the first flush of his victory about a year ago, and while with some distress and surprise he contemplated the list of reward seekers at his door and the exigent demands in his mail, the governor made a couple of purely non-political appointments, to the gratification of some of the pious independents and the annoyance of some of his own partisans.

But that phase didn't last long. Eagerly the men who have been appointed to both state and local office have been the politically deserving, and no doubt about it. Through a combination of circumstances Nelson has also had a somewhat higher quota of places to fill than some of his predecessors.

It should be noted here in haste that the total of the governor's patronage is slender enough. Wisconsin isn't organized in such a way as to reward any significant numbers of the partisan faithful. There are some Democrats who believe the state has got too serious about the civil service business. But Nelson is not among them and there isn't much real chance that the civil service laws will be changed.

THE CHANCE
Here and there the governor has obviously risked something for the sake of upholding the tradition that those who help you into office deserve some help in return. A couple of his principal nominations to state office involved patterns of private life and experience that were not exactly guarantees of brilliant performance in the powerful state-house places. But, and again, other governors faced the same calculated risks and survived. If there is a difference, it lies in the fact that the governor can name mediocre men with relative immunity from criticism.

Some elements of the Wisconsin press, and the Democratic party itself, were not so tolerant of some of the choices of predecessor Republican governors.

A couple of times lately the governor has named to high office persons his publicity men regard and label as "career men," men from the ranks of the department involved who are invited to take command posts.

Yet the wary may wonder whether all of these are in reality the non-partisans they appear to be. There are potent pressure groups concerned with some of these strategic positions, such as the labor organizations. When they are silent — in contrast with their angry responses on other occasions — it is a fair guess that the "career" man is agreeable to them and their political goals.

THE BALANCE

On the whole, however, an independent judgment that recognizes some of the undercover factors involved in appointments is likely to be that the governor has chosen with fair success.

The fair-minded man cannot object to a governor's desire to choose men who will be loyal and friendly and faithful to his own purposes. Once a Republican governor put it this way: Qualified men will be appointed and qualified men are Republicans.

It is not always evident on the outside, however, that it is frequently and regrettably difficult to recruit the best men of proved performance and distinguished reputation to public service posts. The occasional second rater is the price the body politic pays for one of the peculiar phenomena of the times.

This correspondent knows for a fact that some of Gov. Nelson's predecessors literally pleaded on occasion to win the consent of some of the men they wanted for principal state office responsibilities.

Nor would he be surprised if this governor has done so on occasion, and been denied, nevertheless.

Byrnes Cited As Top Man In Congress

From The Wisconsin State Journal

The New York Times Sunday listed a dozen key men in congress.

Among those, both Republican and Democrat, was John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, Republican.

The New York Times had this to say about Wisconsin's Mr. Byrnes:

"At 46, he has a youthful buoyancy and is regarded by many as the most promising young Republican in the house."

As chairman of the House Republican Policy committee, he has helped greatly to strengthen the President's hand with congress.

Tax Authority

"A member of the Ways and Means committee since 1947, he is generally regarded as the Republicans' top authority on revenue and tax matters. His economic views are generally conservative."

"Fast in debate, he is adept at discovering and exploiting areas of compromise."

Wisconsin is honored to have its Mr. Byrnes listed among the dozen key men in congress, but we knew it all the time.

FCC, Networks Blamed for Not Assuming Some Responsibilities

From The Christian Science Monitor

During the last month there have been almost daily announcements of moral repairs in the American broadcasting industry.

Dubbed-in applause is to be carefully labeled; network police are to prevent contestant-show rigging; the biggest of the commercial program packaging companies is being dissolved; "payola" is being eliminated to the dying strains of "The Jailhouse Rock." The Federal Communications commission, which hasn't denied any station's request for a license renewal since 1958, is actually holding public complaint hearings on a wide range of broadcasting subjects and has threatened action on payola bribery.

To credit all these measures in the patois of the industry, they have been "run up the flagpole" and we salute them.

But we still see nothing much more than bunting up there at the top of the pole. The big ensign we have been looking for is as yet missing. This is a complete acceptance of responsibility for control of the public's airwaves by (1) the major networks and (2) the FCC.

The mess — and it is a mess — that led to exposure of the quiz scandals, payola dishonesty, and misleading advertising can be traced directly to two major abdication.

Over the years the networks have abdicated their responsibility to create and control their own programming. This leaves sponsors or packaging agents to fill the void in an often self-interested way.

And over the years since its creation the FCC has faded from being the regulatory agency that congress set up to its current estate as a patient referee and listener, apparently unwilling to flex its muscles on behalf of the public.

When Money Is Measure of Success, Kickbacks are Usual Development

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
New York — According to a report of the American Institute of Management, the kickback is very usual. Payola is not a kickback; it may be a bribe or it may be a mark of gratitude. The income tax, unfairly assessed, cruelly collected, is really a license to steal or generates a compulsion to steal. In the good old days of George Washington Plunkett, a politician of the Tammany persuasion, there was a vast moral distinction between honest graft and dishonest graft. Honest graft was such dipping into the public treasury or such acceptance of gratuities as public opinion regards as not involving moral turpitude. This paragraph in the report is most interesting: "Induced by an unbalanced market, the kickback is thriving in American business today as never before—fed by high taxes on the one hand, and on the other by a society in which the accumulation of money is considered to be the one true measure of a 'successful person.'"

The businessman goes into business to make money and the yardstick of his success is how much money he can make. A professor's success may be measured by an acceptance of his books or by the popularity of his classes, but a businessman is noted by his credit line. Therefore it is avaricious to be a successful person? Surely the American Institute of Management would not claim that the merchant who sells salami behind a counter is as successful as the president of General Motors. In business, success is measured by dollars as it is in the army by stars. A 5-star general is more successful than a sergeant. So is a rich businessman more successful than a bankrupt. So much for the very faulty logic of the quoted paragraph. Now we return to the kickback. Income tax outrages upon the individual force him to think of gimmicks. The kickback is a way to get untaxed cash which makes the taker a criminal because he usually does not report such money. His main concern is how to convert it into honest money without getting caught in the act. An untaxed dollar may be worth two or more taxed dollars, so untaxed dollars are welcome if they can be handled. It is like bootlegging dollars. Approved Kickbacks That is usually very difficult because the treasury has a gimmick called "net worth" by which it is possible to force a man to disclose hidden cash. The kickback is practiced in many operations. For instance, purchasing a agent might get a bit of a kickback. According to this report, some employers regard these extras as part of a just wage. The pamphlet says: "Management is often fully aware of (and often partakes in) kickbacks received by company members. There are instances of gross business misconduct where employees are openly forced by management to take kickbacks. . . . Part of the wages, of course, come out of the kickback. This story reminded me of my No. 1 boy in China. I paid him $30 Mex. a month, which was then equivalent to $15 U. S. currency. But on it he got rich. He bought land in Ningpo, dressed his wife, sent his boy to school, and was quite a gentleman among his countrymen. One day my wife opened a charge account in a department store. My No. 1 boy promptly resigned. He told me frankly that he could not maintain his standard of living on such a basis. So I agreed for him to see our monthly bill and we would give him the 10 per cent kickback. He stayed. (Copyright, 1959)

Kennedy's Fate Hangs On Wisconsin Primary

His Showing Will Determine
Illinois Delegates, Strength

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Washington—Not long ago, the backers of Sen. Stuart Symington were cast down into the dumps of gloom, and the camp of Sen. John F. Kennedy was filled with a glow of hope, by a simple statement from Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago.

In this statement, which got almost no national attention, Mayor Daley merely indicated that he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the governorship of Illinois. The Kennedy backers had been praying for just this statement, and the Symingtonites had been praying, even harder, for a statement in just the opposite sense. They both had good cause to pray. Mayor Daley was known to feel that it would be too much of a good thing to ask the Illinois citizenry to vote for a Catholic Democratic governor and a Catholic Democratic presidential nominee as well. If the Catholic mayor had decided to stand for the governorship, in other words, the Symingtonites' claims to the large Illinois convention delegation might well have been made good. Instead, the mayor's withdrawal opened the way for Kennedy in Illinois.

Symington's Illinois backers made a brief effort to repair the damage by securing the gubernatorial nomination for another Catholic candidate. But they were quickly overridden in the state committee. The committee decided to endorse the candidacy of County Judge Otto Koerner, a big Illinois vote-getter, a war hero, and a Protestant.

With Koerner and Sen. Paul Douglas heading his state ticket, Mayor Daley will now be ideally placed to give Kennedy the 45 to 55 Illinois delegates whom he will control. Developments in Illinois may add up to another break for Kennedy almost equal to his handsome gain in Ohio.

But this potential break for Kennedy is also a symbol of the grave risks that he must still run to gain the great prize. Mayor Daley is highly unlikely to make any commitment until Kennedy has proven himself in the state primaries. Hence the battle for the highly important majority group of the big Illinois delegation is likely to be decided in Wisconsin's crucial primary.

Wisconsin Prospects

On the Wisconsin primary, there is a deep split in the Kennedy camp. The two leading political professionals who are pledged to Kennedy, Connecticut's Gov. Abraham Ribicoff and Democratic State Chairman John Bailey, have long been insisting that Kennedy must go into Wisconsin. The risk of losing there, they argue, is much less than the risk of making nonsense of the Kennedy claim that he is ready to take on all comers in primary fights.

Polls showed that Wisconsin's three congressional districts along the Minnesota border were almost sure for Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who is making his major bid in Wisconsin. It showed that Kennedy might hope to take three more districts, yet could not count on doing so by any means. And it showed Kennedy with a seemingly unassailable lead in the four eastern, more industrial Wisconsin districts, including the Milwaukee area.

Under the Wisconsin law, each congressional district elects two convention delegates; ten more are elected by the winner of a statewide majority in the primary; and one more delegate vote is split between the state's national committeeman and national committeewoman. These two are also split, one for Humphrey and one for Kennedy. Thus, if Kennedy carries five districts and gets a state-wide majority, he will win 20 Wisconsin delegates—enough to give him a solid majority, so Bailey and Ribicoff argue.

The great risk is that Humphrey will carry all six districts where he has a chance. He is known to be making progress in Wisconsin and a Humphrey victory cannot be excluded. Therefore Kennedy has lately been seeing a lot of Wisconsin's Democratic Sen. William Proxmire, who is thought to be sure to defeat Humphrey if he enters the primary as a favorite son.

Proxmire has disappointed Kennedy to date by refusing to run as a favorite son favorable to Kennedy. It is about a five to one bet that Kennedy will finally enter the hot Wisconsin primary fight. If he does so, just about everything will hang upon the issue, including the Illinois delegates.

Carrier Drops Mail Into Incinerator

St. Louis —(P)—A letter carrier hired for the holiday rush made a slight mistake in an apartment building.

Noticing the names of tenants above a small opening, he dropped 20 letters down the slot. Right into an incinerator. Fortunately, the incinerator had not been fired and the mail was recovered.

Boy Talks Himself Into Lock Trouble

Tucson, Ariz. —(P)—Frank McKulsky, 15, stepped into a telephone booth at a drugstore to call his girl friend.

A half hour later McKulsky placed the receiver back on the hook, and noticed he was the only one in the drugstore.

All the doors were locked. McKulsky called police, who in turn brought the owner back to the store to free the youth.

Our Charlie Rebels at Boss' Idea Of Walking Across Lake Michigan

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Dear Boss:
Do I hafta?
Do I have to take your suggestion to walk across Lake Michigan, or were you just fooling?
Frankly, boss, when I wrote you that memo I was hoping that you'd take the hint I offered, and send me to some pretty little island in the Pacific so I could bask in the sun. I was careful to hint that my muklucks didn't seem attractive to me, nor any of my other winter gear, but that I was wearing my Hawaiian shirt.

I was almost positive you'd get the hint. But what do you do? You give me an incredible assignment. Walk across Lake Michigan!

Boss, nobody has ever walked across that lake! Only once in all recorded time has the big lake ever been frozen completely across. Nobody hiked it then and nobody wants to hike it now. Including me.

Even if I started on such a trip I'd run out of ice pretty soon. Lake Michigan is a cold baby, boss. Who do you think I am, boss—

One time, boss, back in the 1800's there was a fellow who had an invention. It was a big waterproof canvas bag that would float on water. The fellow announced one day that he was going to cross Lake Michigan in his contraption. All he needed was a little

Now, boss, I know I have got some rights around here even if I haven't been able to find out what they are. But if I don't want to walk across Lake Michigan, do I hafta?

Boss, I know you were a good reporter back in the days when you worked once in a while. And I know you are good to children and to old people, too. But, boss, you sure are mean to me!

When I asked you for some kind of a trip I figured you would use some imagination. And you did, too. But you should have tinged it with a little kindness.

Lousy Idea

Really and truly, I think your idea for a trip for me was just terrible. If you are such a good idea man you would have thought of something nicer. Anybody, boss—anybody could get a better idea than that one. And you're so smart, too!

Boss, I would bet you my last year's sheet of carbon paper that I could ask any 10 people on the street for an idea for a trip and that nine of them would have better ideas than the one about Lake Michigan. They wouldn't be so mean, either.

So how about it boss? Don't you have some other, nicer kind of idea for a trip for me? Try to think of sand, boss—nice warm sand.

Boss' Reply

Dear Charlie:

Your memo received and contents noted. The only thing I can think of about sand has to do with an hour glass and the sands of time. (You were 10 minutes late for work this morning.)

Also, I do not approve the method you use to send me

Landowners Lose Ruling

PSC Affirms Navigability of White River Waters

Post-Crescent News Service

Wautoma — A conflict between owners of stream front property and trout fishermen here has brought about a public service commission ruling reinforcing the historic finding that the west branch of the White river is navigable and therefore open to public use.

The commission ruled against L. C. Scharnhorst and 16 other landowners, in a case that conservation authorities believe may be appealed to the courts.

The petitioners asked the a memo. You slip it under my door and then you run away. And you make a column out of it, too. You will have people believing that I really am mean to you.

At any rate, I have made a decision.

Charlie, Take Heed

You may ask the man of the street for a suggestion. Use any means you like — personal interview, an advertisement or column. Let him decide. I think it fair that you take whatever trip seems to be the suggestion of the majority. You may be sorry.

But we will leave the trip suggestion to the man on the street. Just ask him the question: Where should I go?

He may tell you. The Boss.

Mortuary Files Suit to Collect for Burying Skull, Porcupine Bones

Albuquerque, N. M. — (U)—A mortuary has filed a suit to collect $2,055 it says it spent to bury a human skull and some porcupine bones believed to have been the charred remains of a man.

A few days after the burial, the missing man, Manuel N. Armijo, Jr., Albuquerque, staggered into a southwestern New Mexico logging camp.

The suit has been brought by Pablo Garcia, who operates Garcia mortuary in Albuquerque.

The state agency to make a finding that the west branch of the river is not navigable, evidently because of resentment about trespass on their lands. They complained of destruction of fences, other improvements and general damage to their property by fishermen.

Low Water Trips

The commission order said it measured the flow in the stream and then put a canoe in the river. Two trips were made during a period of low ground water levels in Wau-shara county because of insufficient rainfall. The water was sufficient to float the canoe, the commission said, adding that the stream derives its water from springs in the basin.

The commission also noted its findings that the stream is extensively used by fishermen who gain access by wading.

The state conservation department has followed the case closely, and when the petition of the landowners was heard it was opposed by the department counsel, the Wisconsin Trout Fishermen's association, and the Izaak Walton league, among others.

queque. He is suing Armijo and his wife, Priscilla.

The suit says Mrs. Armijo hired the mortuary to provide complete funeral services for her husband. He was declared dead last June 5 by a coroner's jury.

The remains were described at that time as so badly burned they were beyond identification.

Garcia explained to authorities a fire started in his car and he jumped from it because he was carrying dynamite caps in it. He said he hit his head and could not remember anything of the incident until he stumbled into the logging camp.

Governing Party in India Wants Peaceful Settlement of Dispute

Bangalore, India — (U)— India's governing congress party said Saturday the border dispute with communist China should be settled by peaceful means.

The congress unanimously approved a resolution endorsing Prime Minister Nehru's policy of negotiation after Nehru had warned that any attempt to fight could lead to a century long war.

But a policy of negotiation "does not and cannot mean, as has been made clear by the government, submission to aggression or anything which challenges the integrity and honor of India," the prime minister said.

He urged a calm approach while building up the nation's economic strength.

"If India's honor is attacked, India has to resist. It doesn't matter what the consequences are," Nehru said. "But we cannot use language of threats to China or other countries. It doesn't become us. The fight would not end—they would not come to Delhi and we are not going to Peking."

Your Money's Worth

Bankruptcy to Hit Small Businessmen

BY SYLVIA PORTER

A great wave of bankruptcies among America's small businessmen is due to sweep over the United States during this year of peak prosperity.

The number of business failures, concentrated among smaller firms, is heading for the highest level since the depression '30s even as the American economy expands to the loftiest levels ever. It's a virtual cinch that 1960's total of 14,000 bankruptcies will be topped. It's almost as grim a record of 15,000 business failures will be surpassed and businesses will be dying at a rate of more than 300 a week as the year rolls on.

Money Squeeze
A first ironic explanation lies in the very fact of prosperity. For the economic boom is bringing on the most severe money squeeze in over a generation, and this credit pinch will spell disaster to many financially weak smaller concerns.

A second explanation lies in the upsurge in competition not only among U. S. businessmen but also from foreign producers moving into the American market. In this fiercely competitive 1960 older firms without the know-how to compete successfully in a rough period as well as tender infants without adequate credit lines will die.

I am not guessing about this trend. The background of prosperity and tight money is unmistakable now.

Against this background, all I am doing is making a simple — and conservative — projection into 1960 of Dun and Bradstreet's authoritative compilations of the total and type of failures which occurred in 1959.

There is no denying the overall atmosphere of prosperity today.

As always in a boom cycle, tens of thousands of enthusiastic but inexperienced individuals will try to realize the American dream of going into business for themselves, and a sickeningly large percentage of these just won't be capable of making the grade.

But much more significant is the fact that in this boom, credit is becoming tougher and tougher, increasingly expensive to get.

Can Get Credit
A big, established corporation can get credit. Even if it can't get all the money it wants, it will have the financial connections to raise what it must have to compete and grow.

But the smaller businessman? The nation's banks aren't organized to supply him with risk capital, and in this era of tight money they understandably favor their long-standing, "safe" customers.

Our nation's capital markets aren't set up to provide him at tolerable cost with the long-term funds he needs to grow.

The revolutionary system of small business investment companies created by law in 1958 to help financial small business has so far been an appalling flop.

And even if a small firm can get a loan, the cost in many instances may be just too steep. With the bluest of blue-chip companies paying close to 6 per cent for loans, the charges — plus extras — to a little, marginal concern may be unbearable.

Losing Battle
Nor is there any denying the intensifying competition in this era as domestic and foreign producers scramble for a share of our dollar. In this sort of era, a high-cost, low-efficiency firm is fighting a losing battle on prices, service, research.

The statistics don't show the trend yet. Actually, Dun and Bradstreet's failure statistics were leveling off as 1959 closed. But the lull won't last as the money pinch really starts to pinch.

Most vulnerable will be merchandising and food stores, high-cost service shops, businesses in the $5,000 to $25,000 range. Killing them will be not only their inexperience, but also their inability to get the cash imperative if they are to compete and grow.

Surely we are not so complacent that we will smugly view this trend during a period of record prosperity?

Surely there are still powerful voices in our land that will admit the inadequacies in our financial system and that will keep fighting to refine the system so it can help the small but worthy businessman thrive and survive? (Copyright, 1960)

Bipartisan Summit Meeting Unlikely

President Alone Makes Foreign Policies, Not Minority Party

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington — In spite of all the talk about bipartisanship, any real Democratic participation in President Eisenhower's high-level cold war talks is about as likely as that Vice President Nixon will join the Democratic National committee.

White

There are some fundamental reasons why this is so:

1. The president alone is in charge, under the constitution, of the foreign policy of the United States. The Democrats know this, as do the Republicans.

Wouldn't Go Anyway

2. No president in the driver's seat at an international conference—whether with his allies, the Soviet Union, or both—has any inclination to call for back-seat driving from the party not in power.

3. In the extremely improbable event that President Eisenhower should ask top Democratic senators to accompany him to the summit meeting, they wouldn't go any how.

One of the realities of political life, pleasant or not, is whenever representatives of the party in opposition to the White House are brought into foreign negotiations they will be in a bad way from the start. They will have far less than half the power—and run the risk of shouldering far more than half the blame if things go wrong.

Actually, the whole notion of bipartisanship has long been over-advertised. It is a useful notion only if too much is not expected of it—if it is not somehow assumed that once you have got bipartisanship all will be well.

Truman Experiment

Bipartisanship never has meant the minority party has any truly creative, decisive and 50-50 role in foreign policy. The device was first widely talked about in the Truman administration when GOP senators were brought into close cooperation. Such men undoubtedly helped the administration a great deal.

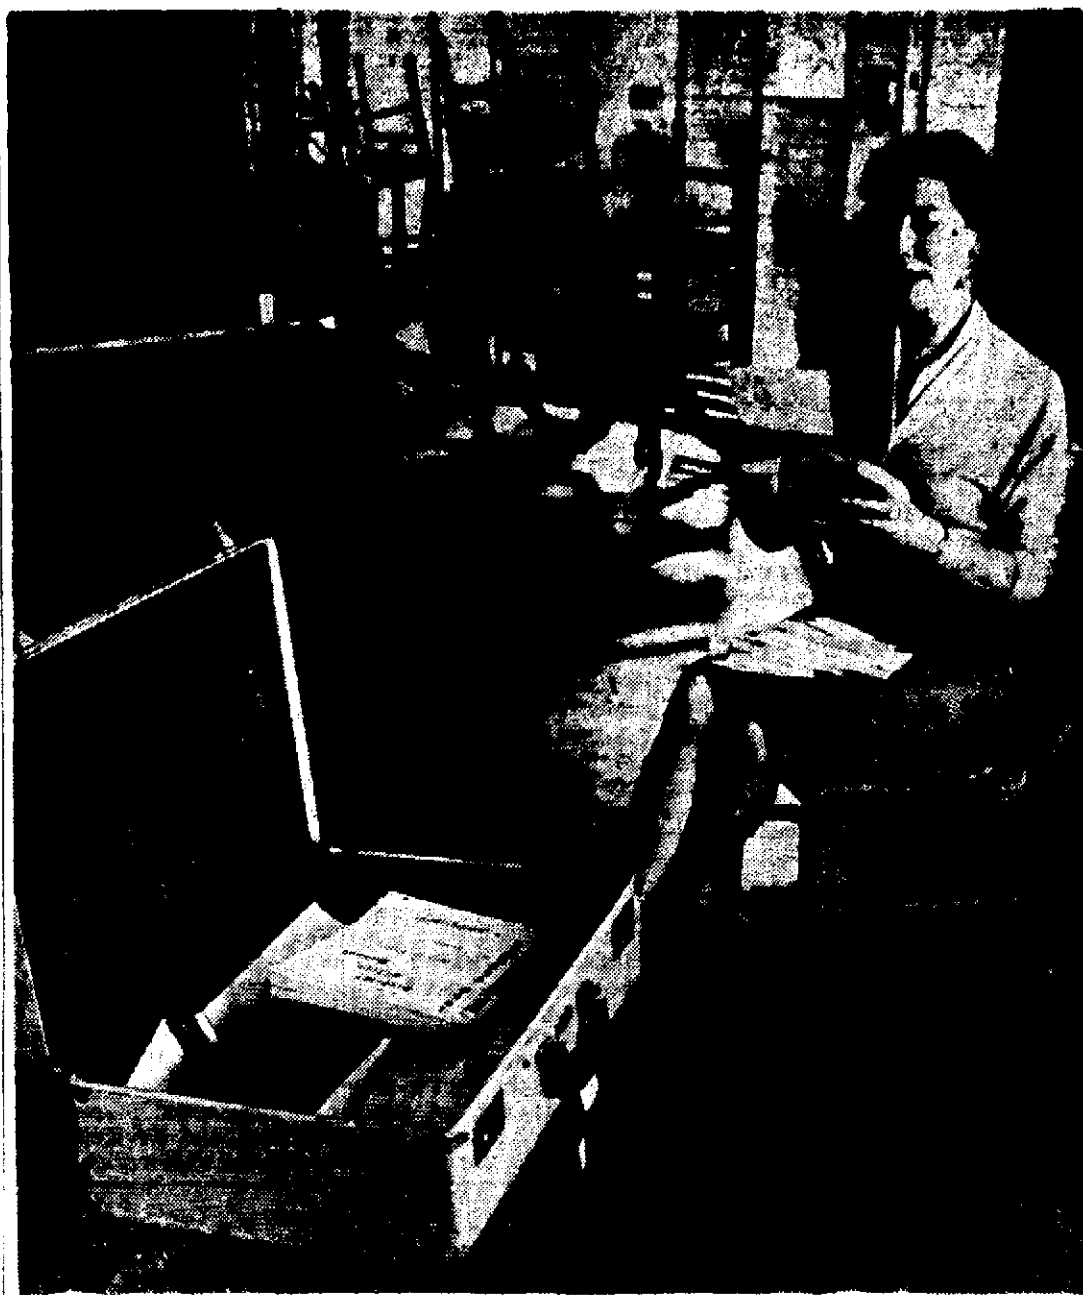

But their genuine function was only to persuade their fellow-Republicans not to rock the boat too much. The helm remained in Mr. Truman's hands, as it will surely now remain absolutely in Mr. Eisenhower's hands.

The Truman administration, and not bipartisanship, made the North Atlantic Treaty organization. The Truman administration, and not bipartisanship, sent American troops into Korea. The only difference was the Republicans generally became critical of the Korean war.

What true bipartisanship really requires of any opposition party is not to knock the president down on the bridge while he is navigating tricky waters. To give him such decent support as is possible, or, at any rate, not to pick at him endlessly and destructively for mere petty partisan reasons.

The truth is that most real, working, professional politicians tend, in the area of foreign policy, to be less partisan than many nonpolitical people. To operate with partisan irresponsibility in this field is to endanger the country itself and also the party which takes such a course.

The Law and You

Owner Usually Not Liable For 'Invisible' Door Injuries

Modern office buildings that the door was in good repair and that the proprietor was not negligent simply because the door was one large piece of glass. Even so, the court said, the door was not wholly invisible, and a door is to be expected at the entrance to a store. The court added that door fronts of solid glass are commonly used today and are accepted as sound and safe building construction.

Different facts may well change the result and make the owner liable. Such was the case where a hotel installed a glass wall between a lounge and the lobby closing off an entry used for some time. Also, where an office building had glass doors marked with red reflector tapes, and removed the tapes without warning.

A home builder was held liable to suit for injuries to a child who walked through a sliding glass door at an open house. The child and its mother had just visited a similar adjoining house, also open for display, where the sliding doors to the patio had been open. The court here was especially careful to point out the greater duty on the owner, who should have anticipated children would be attending the open house with their parents.

Ike Says Surplus Could Bring Tax Cut in '61

the military and foreign aid budgets, a major stepup in space exploration and record outlays for water projects.

Could Cut Taxes

Although allotting $50 million more for defense, the budget proposes small cuts in purchases of missiles and ships and a big reduction in aircraft purchases.

Cuts in non-military programs generally were small and scattered.

Eisenhower asserted that if the fiscal blueprint can be translated into reality, the president and congress to be elected in November will have an opportunity to cut taxes, assuming prosperity continues.

"Soundly conceived tax revision can then be approached on a comprehensive and orderly basis, rather than by haphazard piecemeal changes," he added.

Eisenhower did not say specifically that a tax cut should be considered in 1961. He merely pointed to this as a possibility during the two-year tenure of the congress that will convene next January.

He also commented that the legislators might prefer debt reduction to tax reduction.

Budget Director Maurice Stans told reporters he believes a tax cut next year definitely would be logical if the conditions Eisenhower specified are met.

However, Sec. of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson was less definite, saying he was reluctant to guess months ahead whether a tax cut would be wise.

"I don't want to pick out any particular calendar period," he told newsmen.

Stronger Economy Seen

The treasury chief said the prediction of record revenues reflects "our belief that our economy will continue to move forward with strength and that substantial gains in employment and incomes will be achieved."

He said the income estimate is based on an expectation that the national product will increase by $30 billion to $510 billion in the current calendar year.

Personal income and corporate profits also will climb to new peaks, Anderson forecast.

Initial congressional reaction discounted sharply Eisenhower's chances either of getting the revenue boosts he asks or of producing the surplus he estimated. Some publicans were among those expressing doubt.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) whose house appropriations committee works over the money proposals in detail, called the budget "a great disappointment to all who expected a reduction in expenditures."

Won't Boost Rates

As for the estimated surplus, he said, it "depends on increases in postal rates and gasoline taxes — neither of which congress will do."

Rep. John Taber, the committee's senior Republican, said the spending estimates "are as high as they ought to be and in a good many cases higher."

Rep. Noah Mason (D-Ill) predicted Eisenhower will have "a tough time raising any new revenue this year."

And Sen. L. Hruska (R-Neb) agreed.

Sen. E. L. Bartlett (D-Alaska) spoke of "a paper surplus in an election year budget," and Sen. A. S. Monroney (D-Okla) said this budget is unrealistic.

Along that line, Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) said "much of it is based on a philosophy of not doing things rather than doing things."

Unlike his state of the Union message, which Eisenhower delivered in person Jan. 7, today's budget message was sent to the capitol to be read by house and senate clerks.

No Great Surprises

In addition to a big surplus in fiscal 1961, the president is counting on a $217 million surplus in the current book-keeping year. For the 12 months which end June 30 he estimated revenues of $78,600,000,000 and spending of $78,383,000,000.

The 952-page budget contained no major surprises, particularly since Eisenhower revealed the principal figures 11 days ago in his state of the Union message.

Altogether, the document included 79 legislative proposals, these being the most important:

—Increase postal rates by $544 million a year. This was $150 million more than was requested, and refused, in 1959.

In congress again bypasses higher rates, as seems likely, spending will be increased by a like amount since postal revenues are used to reduce the department's demands on the treasury.

—Boost the gas tax to 4½ cents a gallon until June 30,

Federal Budget Trends for the fiscal years 1952-59 and an estimated surplus for 1960-61 are shown by this chart. It appeared with the president's annual budget message to congress.

1964, when the rate would revert to 3 cents. This would produce an extra $500 million a year to speed construction of superhighways — a program handled through a trust fund outside the budget.

Congress last year boosted the tax from 3 cents to 4 cents for a 21-month period beginning last October and is expected to resist the new request.

—Increase the tax on aviation gasoline to 4½ cents a gallon, from 2 cents, and establish a new 4½ cent tax on jet fuels. These actions, also requested in 1959, would add $72 million to revenues.

Eisenhower also asked that the aviation taxes go into the general fund, instead of the highway trust fund.

—Postpone a scheduled June 30 cut in corporation income and excise taxes. Unless this is done, treasury revenues would drop at least $3½ billion a year.

Higher Debt Ceiling

—Increase the national debt ceiling temporarily. Eisenhower said the prospective surplus plus cash on hand will permit cutting the debt to $280 billion by the end of fiscal 1961. However, he said seasonal borrowings next fall will make necessary a temporary increase in the ceiling.

The permanent ceiling is $285 billion and a temporary lid of 295 billion expires June 30.

—Remove the 4½ per cent interest ceiling on money borrowed for more than 5 years. Eisenhower already has submitted a special message renewing this 1959 request but congressional Democrats have shown little enthusiasm.

Here are the spending plans Eisenhower blueprinted for major programs:

—Defense outlays will inch upward by $50 million to $40,995,000,000. Aircraft purchases will be cut by $642 million to $6 billion. Missile procurement will drop by $21 million to $3,479,000,000. Funds for new ships will be $7 millions lower at $1,644,000,000.

Money is requested to begin work on three new Polaris missile submarines and to buy some equipment for three more now in the planning stage. This brings to 15 the number of Polaris subs built or planned.

Also on the fiscal 1961 schedule is a new aircraft carrier, but without the nuclear power plant the navy wanted.

—Atomic energy programs will cost an estimated $2,689,000,000 — about the same as this year. A cut in uranium purchases will be offset by "substantial increases for research and development."

—Space exploration outlays will be increased by $375 million to $600 million.

—Foreign aid spending is pegged at $3,450,000,000, a boost of $100 million. Military assistance represents $1,750,000,000 of the total. The rest is economic and technical aid. But his total request for 1961 and future years, was $4,175,000,000, including $2 billion for military aid.

—The army engineers and bureau of reclamation will spend a record $1,210,000,000 on flood control, navigation, irrigation and power projects. This is $116 million more than this year and includes $18 million to start work on 42 new projects.

—Interest on the national debt is estimated at $9,585,000,000. Eisenhower said the $200 million increase over this year reflects rising interest rates which, he implied, will level off if the forecast surplus materializes.

Agricultural programs will cost an estimated $5,623,000,000, an increase of $510 million, mostly for the price support programs. These and other farm price stabilization activities would account for $451 million of the increase and $3,950,000,000 of the total.

—Veterans services and benefits will increase by $314 million to $5,471,000,000, because of higher pension rates voted last year and an increase in eligible veterans.

—Labor and welfare spending will rise by $128 million to $4,500,000,000. The largest increases are for medical research and hospital construction.

—Commerce and housing is the only broad category to show a drop. Estimated spending is down by $293 million to $2,709,000,000. However, the postal rate request of $544 million more than accounts for this.

Less for Housing

Spending for most commerce programs — particularly air safety — will increase but housing programs will cost less. Eisenhower wants to wind up aid to college housing and direct housing loans to veterans.

The president's 74-page budget message had this as its keynote:

"I invite the congress to join with me in a determined effort to achieve a substantial surplus."

He said this can be attained while at the same time maintaining required military strength and enhancing the national welfare."

Ike Calls Budget Test of Our Resolve to Allocate Resources

Surplus of $4.2 Billion Should Reduce Debt, President Asserts

Washington — President Eisenhower's budget message for fiscal 1961, the year beginning next July 1:

Budget a Test

This budget attests to the strength of America's economy. At the same time, the budget is a test of our resolve, as a nation, to allocate resources prudently, to maintain the nation's security, and to extend economic growth into the future without inflation.

Highlights

Revenues of $4 billion and expenditures of $9.8 billion, leaving a surplus of $4.2 billion. This surplus should be added to debt reduction, which I believe to be a prime element in sound fiscal policy for the nation at this time.

Space

A virtual doubling of expenditures, for nonmilitary space projects. This furthers our plans to keep moving ahead vigorously and systematically with our intensive program of scientific exploration and with the development of the large boosters essential to the conquest of outer space.

A Call

For prompt legislative action to increase taxes on highway and aviation fuels, and to raise postal rates. These measures are needed to place on the users a proper share of the rising costs of the federal airways and postal service, and to support the highway program at an increased level.

Economies

I am directing all govern-tax at 4½ cents until June 30, 1961.

Postal

Legislation is again proposed to increase first-class and air mail rates by 1 cent and to raise other rates and fees by enough to cover the postal deficit.

Farm

The longer unrealistic price supports are retained, the more difficult it will be to make the adjustments in production needed to permit relaxation of government controls over farm operations.

Civil Rights

The civil rights commission has developed additional constructive recommendations, particularly for protecting the right of every citizen to vote. I hope these recommendations will also be earnestly considered by the congress.

Classes Begin at Business School

A one semester typewriting and general office course will begin Jan. 27, at the school of business of the Appleton Vocational and Adult school.

The course will offer training in typewriting, bookkeeping and accounting, calculating machines, filing, office procedures and other subjects related to business.

Students interested in a longer period of training also will begin on the same day. These areas include the 1 or 2-year accounting major course and the sales and marketing course.

Individual classes may be taken or a complete diploma course. The classes are designed for adults and have been approved by the veterans administration. The state board of vocational and adult education also has approved the school as a post-high school technical training institution.

Budget Tries to Make 18-Month Prediction

Washington — The budget tries to estimate how the government's book will look almost 18 months from now.

That's because the government year starts on July 1. Fiscal 1961, for which President Eisenhower made his forecast today, starts at mid-year 1960 and ends June 30, 1961.

Much could happen in 18 months to spoil his guesswork. A roaring-business boom conceivably could boost the prospective $4,200,000,000 surplus to around $6 billion.

Major strikes, a recession, or a military emergency could make the surplus dwindle or disappear. In fiscal 1959 Eisenhower saw a planned half-billion dollar surplus transformed by a business slump into a $12½ billion deficit, biggest in peacetime history.

Security

Our national objective remains as before — peace with justice for all peoples.

Defense

While seeking the true road to peace and disarmament we must remain strong.

Military Aid

The ability of the free world to deter aggression depends on the combined strength and determination of many countries.

Astronauts

Project mercury has a high priority and we should be ready to attempt actual manned space flights within the next two years.

I urge the congress again

Your Problems Father's Decision to be Pal To Son Doesn't Convince Wife

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has been doing a good bit of reading on adult-child relationships and he has decided that every father should be a pal to his son. Our only boy is 10. My husband is 44. Recent psychological findings, according to my husband, indicate most kids are scared stiff of their parents. These authorities claim a relaxed "buddy" atmosphere creates a healthy emotional climate.

Some of our older friends who bought this theory turned out spoiled, selfish kids who walk all over them. I don't go along with it personally, but he says it's sound. May we have your views?—Mommer

Dear Mommer: Your husband must be reading old books. According to recent psychological findings it's the parents who are scared stiff of their kids. Too much permissiveness has put kids in the driver's seat.

A father should be a father. What 10-year-old kid wants a 44-year-old pal? A healthy father-son relationship is one which is relaxed and friendly. When Dad gets palsy-walsy he destroys the symbol of authority which every child needs to guide him through childhood and adolescence.

DEAR ANN: I have a question several of my girl friends would like answered. If you print this letter you'll be doing a lot of teenagers a big favor. How can a nice girl keep a fellow interested?

One girl in our crowd, who is a top student and leader in school government, says the best policy is to stay sweet and innocent and let the boys know where you stand. She may be right but she sure stays home a lot.

We are puzzled and need advice from an older person—Sweet 16

Dear Sweet: A girl who has trouble keeping her boy friend in line is better off losing him—in fact she should tell him to get lost.

It's up to the girl to set the limits. Any fellow who would move on because a girl's standards are too high isn't worth having around.

DEAR ANN: That letter from Nannette who complained because her boy friend thought it was cute to swipe things from restaurants needs a sequel.

The boy, of course is a common thief. He can call it sovenir hunting if he likes—it's still stealing. The guy probably orders a 30 cent sandwich and walks out with $3 worth of swag.

I'm in the restaurant supply business. China cups cost 70 cents apiece, plates are $24 a dozen. Stainless steel spoons are 20 cents. Tea and coffee pots are $2 50 each. These are wholesale prices.

I hope Nannette will chuck the cluck.—Dayton Dan

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coins and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Open Card Party

The Eagles auxiliary is having an open card party at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Eagles club. Mrs. Leora Reinholz is chairman.

Lloyd E. Yandre Claims Miss Barbara Krieglstein

Miss Barbara Ann Krieglstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Krieglstein, 9261 W. Lawrence street, became the bride of Lloyd E. Yandre, son of Walter Yandre, 1212 N. Union street, during 7 p.m. nuptials Saturday evening at St. Paul Lutheran church.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. F. M. Brandt. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Edwin Hart, Jr., and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Edward Ulrich, was the aide.

Both are Appleton residents. Best man for his brother was Robert Yandre, Appleton, and the bride's brother, Frank Krieglstein, Jr., was groomsmen.

Ushering duties were performed by Edward Ulrich and Gilbert Stanelle, both of Appleton.

After a reception and dance at the Moose hall, the couple left on a Florida honeymoon. They will live at 1212 N. Union street. The bride is a graduate of Appleton high school, which the bridegroom also attended. She is employed by the Wisconsin Telephone company and her husband works for the Luebke Roofing and Siding company.

Lawrence Band Gets Musical Acclaim

By Marguerite Schumann
Sociologists have been fretting in the public prints over the dread consequences of a population explosion. But Fred G. Schroeder very likely scanned the stage of Memorial chapel last evening not with gloom but an approving smile at the signs of his privately sponsored population explosion within the ranks of the Lawrence concert band.

The band, which was considered in a hale state of good health ten years ago when its numbers were in the 50s, now has exploded to the 80s, and has done it within a student body which has been approximately constant in size. Fred

Schroeder is the magnet which has drawn young musicians to the Lawrence band, and he is the magnet which fills more and more of Memorial chapel's seats each time the ensemble recites publicly.

Strange Shapes
In addition to greater numbers, some strange and wondrous shapes have come into the ranks. There is now a big thing over on the right that stands as high as a submarine periscope (but the program insists it is a contra-bass clarinet) and there are a number of gleaming golden bells that could stand in for ventilators on a first class sea-going vessel.

There are rumors that much of the evening's music was detained in the mail until a dangerously late date last week, but if this is so, the hurried preparation was in no wise apparent.

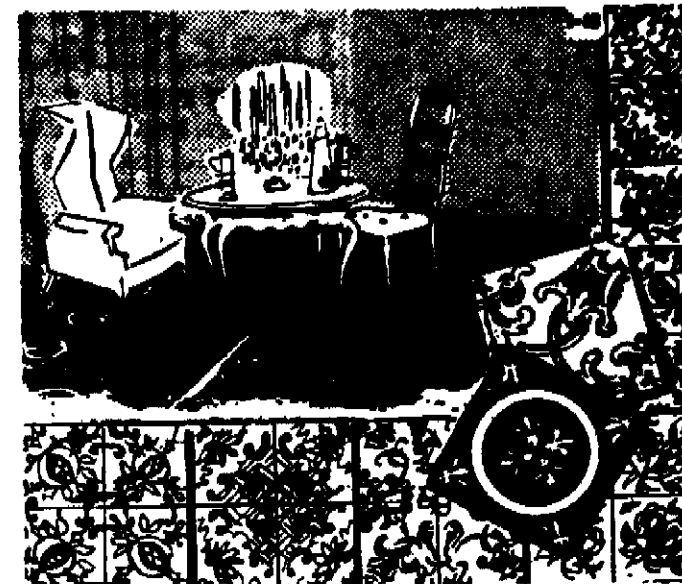

The band was in a holiday mood for this first public appearance of the 1959-60 season. Three of the works were charged with spirits of revelry: There was the Roman Carnival overture of Berlioz; a slice of a Spanish fiesta within a set of Miniatures by Joaquin Turina; and a couple of French fetes from the pen of Debussy. All were done with appropriate gaiety and pulsing charm.

Major Attraction
Major attraction of the first portion was "Wotan's Farewell and Magic Fire Music" from Die Walkure by Richard Wagner, wherein the tonal grandeur that is Wagner swept all before it in amazement.

After intermission, the band left the 19th century for our own, and interesting works were contained by H. Owen Reed (the band played his "Renaissance"), but later in the season it will do a Reed work commissioned especially for the Lawrence Music-Drama Festival year), and some vital thoughts by Maurice Weid, cast in the shape of an Introduction and Scherzo, along with Vittorio Gnanini's Preludium and Allegro. As an encore, there was John Philip Sousa's "Hands Across the Sea" march.

Old Dutch Designs—New for Vinyl Tile

Traditional Dutch tile designs style a charmer of a floor—and a favorite, practical, up-to-the-minute floor, too, now that 18th Century Delft patterns translate in vinyl tile. Most of the new Dutch patterned vinyl tiles reproduce the classic, crisp blues on white, but for one, sketched at left, lemon yellow and bitter green add to bright blue in another original coloring, and all can be ordered in special colors.

Some patterns complete on a single tile, and others fit the typical scrolls, geometrics and fanciful flower forms of four tiles together. Ideas for using the tiles, of course, won't stop with floor design—they're fine inspiration for the covering of wall areas, above counter tops, for example, and make delightful borders for dados and window frames. The tiles can be had with or without beveled edges.

Try Different Menu for Lunch

Want something different for that ladies' lunch? Serve cold sliced turkey or chicken plus ham with French toast and cranberry sandwiches. To make the sandwiches, layer jelly and cranberry sauce between slices of white bread; dip the sandwiches in a regular French toast mixture of egg, milk, salt and sugar. Brown the sandwiches in butter and then cut into small triangles. Add a big mixed green salad to this menu, coffee and rich cookies and you'll have something good! A bowl of fresh fruit might also be in evidence for weight-watchers who chew the cookies.

they are for practical reasons. Mrs. R. R. B. "I papered one wall of my small kitchen entirely with travel posters and I like the effect very much. What colors should I paint the rest of the walls, above and below a molding part way up? The cabinets, range and refrigerator are white."

Since the kitchen is small and one wall is already so colorful, paint the other walls a single color rather than two, white or a light shade of the blue that occurs so often in travel posters for sky and water. (Copyright, 1960)

Ceil Chapman Advises Black, White to Get Man

New York — If you want to get your man, wear black or white, advises Ceil Chapman, designer for many of the top glamor girls of stage, screen and TV.

Following her own advice, she shows a dramatic group of evening gowns in black, white and a combination of the two, guaranteed to make any girl a femme fatale.

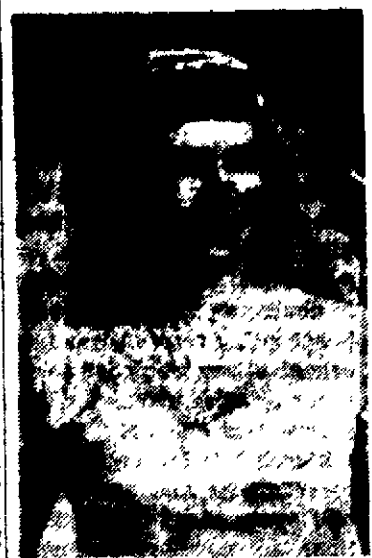

The Chapman show climaxed a crowded week of spring fashion previews presented by the New York Couture group for 235 editors from all sections of the United States and a number of foreign countries. It took real designing genius to intrigue a group of women who had viewed more than 50 fashion shows during the week, starting at 7:30 a.m. and ending at midnight or later. But the astute Ceil turned the trick. For the new decade, Miss Chapman likes new length for evening dresses, 10 inches from the floor, which she calls the "forecast length." She also shows her "candle-light length," just above the ankle, and plenty of flowing, floor-length gowns.

For cocktail and informal evening wear, this designer likes the "beehive" skirt, rounded, draped and tapering toward the hemline. For afternoon wear she shows a group of brilliant prints. But for cocktail time her love remains black—sculptured and draped to accentuate the lines of the feminine figure. Says Ceil:

"The purpose of any dress is to make a man look at a woman — and whistle."

Nat Kaplan, preceding the Chapman grand finale, showed a collection of flattering, feminine styles, climaxed by a group of evening fashions, the highlight of which is a misty gray chiffon short dinner dress, worn with a white satin greatcoat — terrific for blonds.

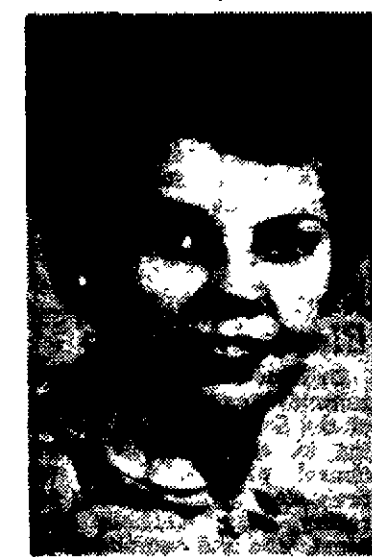

Miss Donna M. Bergan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bergan, route 2, Pulaski, and Michael H. Felton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Felton, route 2, Black Creek, were married Jan. 9 at Our Saviour Lutheran church, Pulaski. The couple is living at route 2, Black Creek.

Clubs List Sale Items For 'Neighbor' Fair

The first annual Good Neighbor fair will be held in the Valley Fair Shop, the mall at Valley Fair Shopping Center from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. April 30. Joseph Trudell is chairman of the event and is accepting reservations from organizations who wish to sell items to raise money for their groups and charity.

March 1 is the deadline for reservations and mall space will allow about 50 organizations to participate. Invitations have been sent to church, fraternal, civic and charitable organizations.

Groups which have already reserved space are the St. Pius X Christian Mothers' society, which will sell baked goods and candy; the Menasha chapter, American Red Cross, which plans to sell either white elephant articles or food; the Ladies auxiliary to Legion post 2126, Neenah, whose members will sell baked goods and fancy work; Fidelity chapter, 94, Order of Eastern Star, which will have baked goods and miscellaneous homemade articles; Service circle of the King's Daughters, Neenah-Menasha, which will sell handmade articles; and the Women's Society of Christian service of the First Methodist church, whose members will sell a variety of items using a "country store" theme.

White Elephants

A white elephant and bake sale will be sponsored by the Women's fellowship of the First Congregational church and the School Sisters of Notre Dame Dads' club will sell handmade articles, cottons, toys, bakery and jewelry. Gladiola bulbs from the exhibition stock of its members will be marketed by the Fox River valley Gladiola society and cookies, peanuts, candy, gems and jewelry will be featured by the Fox River area Girl Scout council.

Needlework, bakery and candy will be featured at the booth of the St. Johanna Court 555 of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters of Little Chute.

The House and Garden club of the Neenah-Menasha YWCA will sell flowers, plants and garden supplies and Calvary Baptist church, Neenah, will sell Bibles and periodicals.

A "parcel post" sale will be featured by the St. Elizabeth society of Little Chute. Also participating will be the Y's Menettes of Appleton and several other groups who have not announced their sale items.

Vivid Colors, Patterns Highlight Fashions

BY ALLYN MOSS

Rome — The feminine figure has been given its most drastic change yet in Rome's fashion show by the young hands of designer Patrick De Barentzen.

The 27-year-old youth, who studied in Paris, presented his new creations Saturday claiming he had sacrificed line for atmosphere.

A substantial number of his models slanted forward from a simplified, if not flattened bosomline, built outward at the waist and widened even more at the hips.

De Barentzen also stood firm on the short skirt length and many buyers and fashion writers who attended his show in this final morning of the Rome shows liked what they saw.

Most other Roman designers dropped their hems from one to three inches lower than they were last season.

De Barentzen carried through a sophisticated little-girl look that he and Gilles, his hatter and co-stylist, have termed "cuddly."

Sleeveless Capes

De Barentzen showed a very attractive group of sleeveless capes for morning wear. They were charcoal grey wools—or tweeds—the arms emerging from deep slits. One dark grey cape was double breasted with big round pink buttons and worn with a bright pink high frout taffeta hat.

De Barentzen used much red taffeta for cocktail and evening wear. One dress in vivid red had a high round collar and long sleeved bodice—the waist built out into a huge draped bow that gradually lost fullness near the floor. The dress was fitted at the back but without detail.

As expected, fabulous draped chiffons were the outstanding feature of Eleanor Garnett's collection. The designer traced her inspiration to "Roman breezes, eloquent flowers, bright birds and fluttering butterflies."

Two bright yellow long chiffons, one called "fiammata," the other "fatale," were highlights of her show.

"Ceylon pink," another featured color in the Garnett collection, was vivid and at the same time soft.

Bright painted fabrics took the spotlight among the house of Fontana's new spring and summer fashions.

They drew even greater attention than her skirts—which fell at least three inches below the knee and were the longest seen since Rome's fashion displays began Wednesday.

Fontana, one of Italy's top designers, presented her collection Friday night at a formal dinner party for buyers, writers and society in her showrooms near the Spanish steps.

Liberty of London supplied the fabrics—mostly surah silk—and dug up some of its old lotus and other floral patterns from the 1890s. Fontana supplied the color schemes.

One fabric, a beige and rust-brown on white, was used in a suit. The design showed a fish swimming horizontally across the long jacket, which had slightly raised shoulders.

Floral Patterns

The other patterns were floral.

Red and pink peonies were printed on a deep green backless evening dress which was ground for a full length, strap-belted and had a tunic length overskirt.

Another strapless evening gown in surah silk had light brown flowers printed on white. The flowers were set off by embroidery and bead work.

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I was home recently for several days with a very bad cold. When I returned to the office, I found that someone had been through my desk drawers. Isn't a secretary's desk considered private property? In other words, does her employer or anyone else in the office have the right to go through the drawers of her desk in her absence?

Answer: If there was something in your desk—such as an important letter or a key to a filing cabinet—that was needed during your absence, your employer would have a right to look for it, but otherwise your desk is your private property and nobody should open it.

Loan of Home

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister is going to be married soon and two of her friends would like to give her a shower. However, both these girls live in small apartments and cannot accommodate the number of guests they would like to invite. Would it be proper for me to offer to let them have the shower here, or might this in any way suggest that I had a hand in giving the party, which I certainly don't want anyone to think.

Answer: So long as the invitations are sent out in their names, it's definitely their party and there is no objection to their giving it at your house.

Difficult Name

Dear Mrs. Post: I work in an office where I take a great many telephone calls. Many of these callers ask to speak to my employer who has a very difficult name to pronounce. After the callers have stammered and stumbled over the name, they finally utter some faint semblance to it. In the meantime I just listen to them, wanting to say the name for them but wonder if I should. Would it be thought rude to correct them?

Answer: It will be polite, and helpful as well, for you to fabrics in creations for day wear as well as for evening wear. Their colors covered a wide range.

But she also employed traditional Italian fabrics—especially silks and organza—on many models using navy blue, black and white.

All her suit jackets were long, but not quite long enough to be tunics.

Canessa did the hats for Fontana. Many of black tulle and net were worn with cocktail dresses. These were wide brimmed and slanted so as to cover half the face.

Wardrobe Perk-Ups

A jaded winter wardrobe perks up at once when you add a spring touch. Just try these daffydawn-dillies and see for yourself!

On a somber suit, pin a pair of fake carnations—one white, one cream, both giant-sized. Or fill in the neckline of a pale suit with a silk gilet printed with flowers in water color tones.

Carry a bone-beige leather satchel with a dark coat, a and blond beads flecked with gold.

Break out a pair of the palest grey gloves—sueded nylon, let's say—when you wear a dark after-five.

A new chapeau, of course, would give any costume—any woman—a terrific lift. Make yours a fluff of lilac, and you will look as fresh as an April morning.

However you choose to do it, your investment will prove of more than momentary value. The accessories mentioned are slated for fashion's favor when Spring actually arrives.

New Secretary Elected by Club

Brilliant — Mrs. Eldor Goldschmidt was elected secretary of the School club at a meeting at the Trinity Lutheran church parlors. A gift was presented to the retiring secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Eichhorst, who had completed a 3-year term.

Indoor games will be purchased for the children to use during inclement weather.

A mother-daughter banquet was planned for May. Committee appointments will be made at the next meeting. Tentative plans were also made to sponsor a father-son banquet.

Mrs. Eldor Goldschmidt and Mrs. Delbert Lau, members of the committee, led devotions and presented readings. Assisting them with the social hour was Mrs. Clarence Helm.

Sen. Proxmire Won't Run

Senator Offers No Backing for Any Political Aspirant

Washington — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said today he will not enter the Wisconsin primary as a stalking-horse for any specific Democratic presidential aspirant.

If he runs as a favorite son in the April 5 primary, he said, it will not be on behalf of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) or any other candidate for the party's nomination.

"I would run with the idea of taking to the convention a delegation that would size up the situation and push from the beginning in a unified way for a candidate who best reflects the views of Wisconsin and who could be nominated," he said.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) has said he will enter the primary but Kennedy, who also is an announced candidate for the nomination, said he has not made up his mind.

Around Home

Members of the Appleton Northside Kiwanis club figure they have a pretty "nutty" way of raising money. Forty-three club members sold 2,747 pounds of various kinds of nuts in a recent drive to raise $528.82. The money has been donated to the Plamann School for Retarded Children.

Appleton Nurse Heads VNA District Drive

Mrs. Lola Noyes, VNA staff nurse, heads the membership drive of the Appleton district of the Wisconsin Nurses association. The annual membership roll call will end Jan. 31.

Working with Mrs. Noyes on the committee are Martha Heigl, Waupaca county nurse, and Evelyn Manning, occupational nurse at Neenah.

Judge R. C. Cannon, Milwaukee circuit judge, left, inspects the design of the St. Joseph Holy Name society wheel at the society's annual dinner meeting Sunday night. From left are J. Joseph Cummings, Holy Name president; the Rev. Kenneth Barnes, OFM Cap., pastor and spiritual director; Milton Fuerst, Holy Name decorations chairman; and Lawrence Gage, society vice president.

Our Children

Time Changes Attitude Of Young Faultfinder

BY ANGELO PATRICH

Children in their adolescent years make the table as pretty as growth, especially the girls, as Mrs. Downstreet does? They are likely to become critical. The children, even the of their parents and their knowing adolescents, are so homes in general.

This is owing to their awkward special occasions, street ened consciousness of the life appearances, entertainments about them. They are seeing call for special dress and spe- differences in people and inial accompaniments such as the homes about them. They flowers and favors. They are likely to think that what quite overlook the fact that is different is better and so become critical of all that be- longs to them.

Mothers, being the ones closest to their young daugh- ters, come in for most of the criticisms. They are not sty- lish like Doreen's mother; they do not talk as nicely as Mary's mother; they ought to get a new table setting such as Mrs. Jones has. Anything different, anything more striking is noticed at once and envied and the mother is told about it in no uncertain terms.

Can Begin Earlier

This can begin before ado- lescence. A 7-year-old girl went to a birthday party. On returning home she told her mother about the wonderful, beautiful table flowers in sil- ver vases, flowers at every plate; the prettiest little glasses to drink from; and the cake and ice cream, sim- ply out of this world. She end-everybody wears everyday things everyday and use the dressy clothes for occasions demanding them.

They do not understand that people have different tastes, different needs and varied in- comes along with varied pur- poses for these incomes. This knowledge comes only with training and experience, slowly through the years.

Have Patience

Mothers and fathers have to have patience with the youthful faultfinders knowing that only time can give them the understanding and the perspective that makes for appreciation of home and family.

Meanwhile, to hasten this process it would be well to pa- tiently explain to the children the reasons for the differ- ences they see about them and point out the advantages they enjoy. The girl down the block may be telling her par- ents how much better off the other girl is at the very time the first one is telling her woes. They must be told about tastes, about back- grounds, about the finances of the family, the hopes and the plans for all concerned.

Expected Contest

It had been assumed for months that Kennedy would contest with Humphrey for Wisconsin's 30 convention delegates. But last week Robert Kennedy urged his brother not to enter. He said it would be an unfair test be- cause of Wisconsin's nearness to Humphrey's home state.

Proxmire has stated repeat- edly that if two bona fide can- didates enter his state's pri- mary, he will not. But if only one candidate enters, Proxmire said, he likely would go in to give the voters a choice.

"However," Proxmire said today, "I believe the chances are very strong that Kennedy will go into Wisconsin's pri- mary and that it would make all this discussion about my entering as a favorite son academic."

Fox-Geese Game Played on Cardboard With 64 Squares

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun-project is a new version of Fox and Geese. The game board is made of a piece of cardboard marked off into 64 one-inch squares, eight across and eight down.

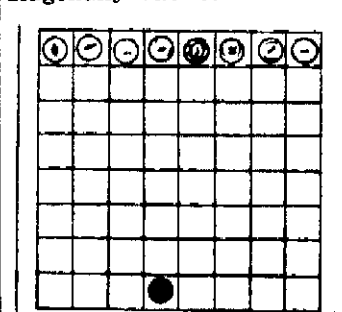

For geese use eight white buttons. A red or brown but- ton will serve as the fox. Line the eight geese up across one side of the board as shown by the white circles in the illus- tration. Place the fox in any square of the row at the oppo- site side of the board. One player moves the geese; the other moves the fox. The idea is for the former player to land as many geese as he can in the row originally occupied by the fox. For each goose he lands there he wins 10 points.

Meanwhile, the player who moves the fox must try to capture the geese and thus prevent them from landing in his row. He doesn't score any- thing for capturing a goose, but he does reduce his oppo- nent's chances of scoring.

After one game the players trade sides and the player who moved the geese in the first game takes charge of the fox in the second game. The player who wins the most points with the geese is the grand winner of the two games.

The players alternate in moving. One goose is moved, then the fox is moved. The same goose, or another, is moved next, then the fox is moved again, and so on. The fox can be moved in any di- rection—left, right, up, down, diagonally and backward. To capture a goose, the fox must jump over it, and he may jump over two or more geese at a time if there are squares between them on which he may land as in checkers.

The geese may be moved in any direction except back- ward. Also, the geese may jump over each other and over the fox, but no capture takes place. When a goose has landed in the fox's row that goose is safe.

It is almost impossible for the fox to prevent all the geese from landing in his row. But by being alert he can capture a goodly number of them. As you play the game you will discover many ways for the geese to evade the fox and for the fox to trap the geese.

Writer Cites Weakness Of U. S. Foreign Policy

Some television viewers re- cently saw a 3-way debate on American foreign policy. A French newspaper editor, an American politician and an American journalist took part. The American journalist, Emmet John Hughes, is head of foreign correspondents for two national magazines. Part of the discussion was on Hughes' new book, "America the Vincible," which is a critical analysis of our foreign policy—or lack of it—and is one of 25 new non-fiction titles on display at the Appleton Public library.

Ten fiction volumes also are on display.

Man's search for his origin and the significance of his being is the subject of another new volume, "The Enduring Pattern," by Hal Borland.

Feathers and Powder "With Powder on My Nose," by Billie Burke, with Camer- on Shipp, is witty and bub- bly narrative of life with celebrities and under Holly- wood lights. It is a follow-up to her best-selling autobiography, "With a Feather on My Nose."

Actor and art expert Vin- cent Price has turned author to create a volume on his life- long love affair with the world of art. "I Like What I Know," his associates bound him into

Judge Cites Baseball as Aid to Youth

Baseball was cited as an important activity for youth of the nation because it helps curb juvenile delinquency.

Judge R. C. Cannon told members of the St. Joseph Holy Name society Sunday.

The Milwaukee circuit judge spoke at the annual dinner meeting of the society at the St. Joseph school hall. He has been active in base- ball activity in Milwaukee.

Many stars in baseball are great supporters of youth, he said. Ted Williams, for instance, he said, does many good things for young boys in trouble and never mentions it.

If there were fewer broken homes and better family con- ditions the rate of delinquen- cy would be cut, the judge said.

"The blame must be placed upon the parents for the ac- tions of their children," he said. "Parents have forsaken their children in fulfilling re- sponsibilities to them."

"A Holy Name society should formulate plans to help young children," he added. "The effort may not pay off in material gains, but it does pay off spiritually. If you would save only one, the program would be a suc- cess," he concluded.

TWO FEET ... FIRMLY PLANTED!

The typical newspaperboy in your neighborhood is living proof that there is a big difference among the youth of today. This lad stands erect when he faces the world; there's a smile on his lips; and his two feet are firmly planted. There's nothing cocky about his attitude—yet he is confident, ready for any challenge, eager and able to accept responsibility. He has the best job in the world for developing the most important qualities of leadership—a job which gives him a practical education to supplement that which he gets in the classroom. And he is learning to put leisure time to constructive use. Only on this job—running his own business—could he learn so much in so short a time—and earn money doing it!

Sullivan May Run for State Treasurer

Kaukauna Man Will Consult With GOP Leaders

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Assemblyman William Sullivan, Kaukauna, 3-term member of the legislature and former school man, may run for the Republican nomination for state treasurer next fall.

Sullivan has discussed the possibility with friends in the legislature and plans to consult Republican party organization officials, it has been learned.

The Republican party is understood to be encouraging candidates for the offices on its ticket. Mrs. Dena Smith, the nominee for treasurer in 1958, was defeated and is not expected to run again. She was appointed to the office upon the death of her husband, the late Warren Smith, who held the post for about a decade.

Previous Candidacy
Sullivan ran for state superintendent of public instruction in 1957, surprising many politicians with the vote he attracted, although he lost decisively to Supt. George Watson, incumbent.

Eugene Lamb, Milwaukee, was elected treasurer in 1958, the first Democrat to hold the office in more than 20 years. His nomination in the Democratic primary was regarded as an upset and there is a possibility he will be opposed for renomination this year.

Village League Action Tonight

Little Chute—Duce's Bar will meet Fitzpatrick Insurance in feature game of the Village Recreation Basketball League at the St. John High school gym at 7 p. m. today.

Duces are currently in a tie for first place with Nick's Bar. Both clubs have 4-1 records after Nick's pulled an upset by topping Duce's by two points last week.

Nick's will meet Gene's Bar in the second game at 8:15.

Credit Union Will Meet at Kimberly Mill

Group Will Mark 25th Anniversary Wednesday Night

Kimberly — The credit union of the Kimberly-Clark corporation will mark its 25th anniversary at the annual meeting at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the mill clubhouse.

Charles Hyland, Madison, field representative for the Wisconsin State Credit Union League, will be the speaker. Hyland was instrumental in the organization of the credit union at the mill in 1935.

Highlight of the business meeting will be the election of officers and directors. Those directors whose terms expire are Joseph Kortenhof, Joseph Frye, Neil Bierstecker and Harry Kriekamp.

190-523 Lead Women's Loop

Kaukauna — Lucille Schmidt slammed a 190 game and Shirley Hurst registered a 523 series to share honors in the Thursday Women's Loop at the Bowling bar.

Giordana Beer and Liquor holds the lead with a 32-1 record while Gertz' bar is one game out. Other high scores included a 512 by Irene Thelen and a 503 by Lucille Schmidt.

OUTDOORS IN WISCONSIN

Nature's Signs Help Hiker Keep Bearings

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Green Bay — The subject of getting lost and of finding your way back again is interesting to most people, especially those who spend a good deal of time in wild, lonely places.

Very few outdoor people can say "I've never been lost."

Hussong

Whether we realize it or not, the sun is our best directional guide, and, unless we're very scatterbrained, we seldom, if ever, get lost on a sunny day. Without being conscious of it, we head in the direction we planned on, and return to our starting point as long as the sun is shining.

It's the cloudy, misty, rainy days on which we get lost, and then we realize what a great help the sun was. It kept us going in the right direction, and, in a time of confusion, kept us from going around and around in circles. But when there is no sun, we aren't sure which way we had come, and which way to go to return to the "home base" — cabin, car, or the rest of the gang.

Notice Landmarks
If you're heading out into strange country, take a good look at your home base before you start. Notice any landmarks which will stand out even when you've traveled some distance.

These may be a hill, tall or odd-shaped trees, or some other natural or man-made mark which can be seen easily. As you travel along, look back occasionally to see what "home base" looks like, so that you'll recognize it on your return journey.

On a sunny day the experienced hiker may not need a compass, but on cloudy days — or one which may turn cloudy — a compass might come in handy. Of course, a compass will do you no good if you pay no attention to the direction in which you hike. It can only tell you which is north, south, east and west, but if you don't know which way you traveled, you're out of luck.

Compass "Went Wrong"
However, if you want to find your way out to some-where, it will keep you traveling in a straight line, that is, if you depend on it. I know two experienced outdoorsmen who got lost on a misty day while archery deer hunting.

They separated, planning to return to camp at a stated time. Then an odd thing happened — each of their compasses "went wrong," or so they told each other when they met after wandering around in circles. On comparing compasses, they found them identical and decided to trust the instruments instead of their own sense of direction. They found their way back easily.

Why do people travel in circles when lost? There are several reasons, Harold Gatty says in "Nature Is Your Guide" (Dutton). Most people are lopsided, he says, and have larger facial features, and longer arms and legs on one side than the other.

It isn't always the right leg which is longer and stronger, but whichever it is, it results in one stride being longer than the other. This causes a veering in the direction of the smaller, weaker leg. If you don't believe this, try walking blindfolded in an open spot — even if you think you are walking in a straight line, you'll find that you veer in one direction or the other.

Don't Panic
If you have a habit of drooping your head toward one shoulder, you will tend to circle in the direction toward which you lean. Rain, snow, hot sun and dust will cause you to turn your head away from these irritants, and this influences the direction toward which you veer.

When you find yourself lost and don't know which way "home" is, don't panic. Stay where you are, take stock, and wait until you're rested and calm or until you're found. Listen for faraway sounds: cowbells, barking dogs, or motor traffic.

David W. Waggoner in a recent Wisconsin conservation bulletin article says every hunter should be prepared to get lost. He advises always carrying along these four items: a compass, a knife, waterproof matches (to build a signal fire if you are in a place where you can), and a map.

For those who know something about the travels of the moon and stars, these are of help in finding your way at night. Our prevailing winds are westerly, which results in trees being windblown to the east, and having the greatest growth of branch and foliage on the east side. The stump of a cut tree will show that north is on the side where the bark is the thickest.

3 Traffic Counts Cost Driver $60, 12 Driving Points

Chilton — Three separate traffic violations cost Ronald R. Korb, 20, of 123 E. Brooklyn street, Chilton, $60 in fines. In late December he was arrested for speeding 50 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone in Chilton and operating on the wrong side of the street. Jan. 3 he was picked up for traveling 78 m.p.h. during the nighttime.

He paid $25 fines on each of the speeding charges and $10 for being on the wrong side of the street. The convictions total 12 points against his driving record.

Roy Mehl, 18, of 368 Water street, Menasha, forfeited $55.35 on a reckless driving charge. Mehl was arrested by County Patrolman Irvin Vice after what the officer described as a 6-block chase on Coolidge avenue at speeds ranging up to 70 miles an hour.

Figures Slightly Under '58 Annual Report Indicates

Kaukauna — Total fire loss in Kaukauna in 1959 amounted to $22,025.60, according to the annual report issued by William Haupt, fire chief. The loss is slightly under the $22,466.84 reported in 1958. The figure for 1958 includes

Chuters Try To Break Loss Streak

Little Chute — After a 10-day layoff the St. John High school basketball team will try to shake off a 4-game losing streak.

Wednesday night the Dutchmen will play at the Green Bay Reformatory in a warmup for the Fox Valley Catholic conference encounter with St. Mary's at Menasha Friday.

After opening the season with a pair of losses the Chuters racked up three successive wins and then hit the skids. Losses have come at the hands of Abbot Pennings, St. Mary Springs, Kimberly and Marinette Catholic Central. Sandwiched in between the four losses was a win and loss in two games at the Marinette holiday tournament.

For the season, St. John has a 4-7 record. In conference action the Dutchmen have a 1-3 mark. Six of the seven losses have been by 10 points or less, one was an overtime and another a double overtime.

Working on One of Their houses in progress, at 1037 Oak street, Mrs. Ray Knaack is mixing paint as her daughter, Mrs. Joyce Whitney paints window frame, standing on the ladder, while Mrs. Vivian Kostuch paints the window sill. The women have worked together as a team for the past two years. Mrs. Knaack has been a painter and paperhanger for 40 years.

Feminine Painter Reaches Top Rung In Masculine Field

BY MARION DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Neenah — A slim, dark-eyed grandmother of six, who works 64 hours a week and loves it, believes she is the only woman contractor in the United States.

Mrs. Ray Knaack, 506 Van street, known as Eve to almost everyone in the building business in the area, is a painter and paper hanger by profession. She installs flooring, tiling and finishes up carpentry work, paints houses inside and outside and can finish a house in two weeks. One of her largest jobs was the Indian Trail motel. She hasn't been without a day's work in years.

She worked alone for years; four years ago her daughter, Mrs. Joyce Whitney joined her; two years ago Mrs. Vivian Kostuch joined the team. Together they are currently working on five houses.

Mrs. Knaack was born on a farm on route 1 where her mother, Mrs. Ida Baer, still lives. She finished eighth grade when she was 13.

"We were very poor and my parents couldn't afford to send me to high school. I wanted to be an artist; painting and house decorating seemed to be the next best thing, so I got to work on that and have been doing it ever since. My husband and I built our house from the ground up without any other help.

Spare Time
"Besides doing all the painting and decorating for the Home Lumber company, I work independently in my spare time, mostly on weekends, although in the summer I can work after company hours on weekdays too. Generally I work about 12 hours a day, seven days a week. I never seem to get tired and I love doing it. Sometimes when people call me in for an estimate I show them how they can do it themselves. Anyone can do anything they want to do. I never was taught how to do this, but I learned from experience and now it is easy and fun. We did 15 houses completely last year besides many other odd jobs."

"Of course we think we are more particular than men, because we know how women want work done. I can mix any color of paint, and even mix my own stains."

"In unsold houses the boss is building, we decide on the colors and murals or papers. I've never had any training, so I don't like to be called a decorator but you learn a lot in 40 years. I can look at a house and tell how much paint we'll need."

Operation
Last year a builder in Madison sent for Mrs. Knaack and her team to decorate a $60,000 house. They went to Madison weekends only and had it finished in a few weeks.

In 1946 Mrs. Knaack had an operation for the removal of two spinal discs and was told it would be some time before she could walk again. "I didn't have time for that," she said, "So I got up the next day to try it, and I've been fine ever since."

Mrs. Knaack has three sons, Daniel, Charles and Richard, besides her daughter, Mrs. Whitney. "I stopped going out to work while the children were small, unless I could take them with me," she said, "While I stayed at home I did lots of handwork for charity and refinished furniture."

"We like painting the outside of houses and can begin when the temperature is over 60 degrees and the weather dry. I already have five houses to paint in my extra time next spring and summer. We all paint fast, and I can do 11 screens an hour."

Mr. Knaack is assistant foreman for the city of Neenah street department; Mr. Whitney works for Miller Electric company, Appleton, and Mr. Kostuch works for Neenah Foundry.

No Complaints
Mrs. Knaack said painting and papering is one profession where women are paid as much as men. She has no complaints about working conditions or the pay she receives, likes her boss and loves her work.

She has no plans for retirement in the foreseeable future, but "I love to travel. We are going to Florida on Jan. 29 for a month, but my girls will keep on our jobs, and I will have everything planned for them."

"When I do retire I am going to try oil painting after all these years, and do as much traveling as possible."

"In the meantime, this is very satisfying work. When we leave the job at the end of the day anyone can see how much we have done. There is a sense of accomplishment that is lacking in some other types of work."

Leaves Scene, Driver Pays $40 in Fines

Menasha — Wesley T. Dutrisac, 56, route 2, Menasha, left Police Justice Arthur J. Ales' court $52 poorer this morning. He pleaded guilty to three charges brought against him Friday night after a minor fender-scrape accident.

He was arrested in a Main street tavern Friday night a few minutes after he walked away from the accident. He had backed out of a Mill street parking stall, and his car struck a parked auto on the other side of the street. It is owned by Cecil Smith, 639 Central street, Oshkosh.

Dutrisac left his car and walked to the tavern. In Ales' court, he was fined $25 and costs for leaving the scene; $5 and costs for operating on the wrong side of the street; and $10 and costs for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Russell J. Sorenson, 37, 196½ Prospect street, was fined $10 and costs by Ales after pleading guilty of driving too fast for conditions. He was arrested about 1:35 a.m. today at 616 DePere street, where his car halted after striking a utility pole, school zone sign and tree.

He told police he was unable to negotiate the curve where Appleton road joins DePere street because of icy pavement. The car skidded 75 feet.

William C. Rummel, 69, 709 Broad street, pleaded guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $20 and costs. His car struck two autos in the 600 block of Broad street last Tuesday. Rummel was traced through a front license plate, which came off when his car struck another.

Hortonville, Oshkosh Lose To Hewitt Five

Machinemen Gain 6th BABA Verdict; O'Keefe Scores 21

Neenah — Hewitt Machinemen added two more basketball victories over the weekend, defeating Hortonville 98-64 here Sunday night for their sixth straight BABA win after whipping Wertsch's of Oshkosh 100-82 in a non-league encounter here Saturday evening.

The Machinemen rolled to a 26-18 first period lead over Hortonville and then added another 26 in the second frame for a 52-37 edge by halftime. The score was 73-52 at the close of three segments.

Pat O'Keefe scored 21 points, Tom Malchow hit 20, Larry Swanson 17 and Rufus Ihde 16 for Hewitt's. Russell Tiedeman collected 19 to pace the Hortonville marksmen. The loss was the Polar Bears' seventh straight in BABA play.

A hot first half helped the Machinemen to their victory over Wertsch's. They notched 31 points in the first period and 30 in the second, taking a 61-38 halftime lead. The winners were limited to eight points in the third period, Wertsch's getting 24, but closed with a 31-20 bulge in the final segment.

Macs Defeat Hilbert For First Half Crown

Netch 38 Points in Final Frame to Record 105-70 Win; Down Oshkosh State JVs

Menasha — The Menasha field goals and eight free Macs speared first round honors in the Eastern Wisconsin Amateur league by dropping Hilbert 105-70 in a replay of an earlier game here Sunday afternoon.

Because Hilbert had used ineligible players, the Macs' only loss was wiped off the books, reversing an earlier defeat. The win gave the Menashans time.

John Chapleau had 21 points and Dick Rohe netted 18 for the Macs. Bob Leary made 16 of 17 all first quarter tie but took for the Titan reserves. The Macs go to Plymouth Wednesday night for a second them in front 67-55 at the close round EW test. Saturday evening they visit Hilbert. Sun-

Midway in the final segment, the hosts began to pull away and, paced by Jerry Butte des Morts gym. Smith, wound up with 38 points for the quarter. Hilbert was limited to 15. Smith topped the Menasha attack with 38 points on 15

Menasha — St. John Holy Name withstood a torrid 34-point fourth period by Kimberly to best the KRA 100-92 in a BABA contest here Saturday night. The victory was the seventh in league play and the 19th straight of the season.

Sunday afternoon the Menashans made it No. 20 with a 97-87 triumph at the state reformatory.

St. John was off to a 32-19 first period lead over Kimberly and enjoyed a 53-42 advantage at halftime. The score was 79-58 going into the last frame. St. John closed with a 21-point quarter, 13 less than the villagers.

Prange Scores 24
Bob Prange notched 24 points, all on field goals, to lead the Menasha attack. Tom Martin added 18, Bob Erickson scored 18 and Don Nelson added 16. Prange hit 14 in the third frame.

Kimberly honors went to Jim Harke and "Hank" Peerenboom with 22 points apiece. Lee Never tallied 19. Harke had 12 in the last quarter.

Against the reformatory, St. John led 20-15 at the quarter, 43-32 at halftime and 72-48 at the conclusion of three segments.

Nelson racked up 27 points on 12 field goals and three free throws. Prange added 24, Erickson hit 19 and Martin dropped in 15.

Zephyrs Win Over Stubborn Fondy '5'

Forced to Finish Strong for 40-34 Verdict; Hit Chain of 7 Points in Final Segment

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Fond du Lac — St. Mary was called upon to use all the talents it could muster to turn back a stubborn Fond du Lac Springs club, 40-34, here Saturday night.

Although it wasn't easy, the Zephyrs managed to chalk up their 13th straight victory, their fourth in Fox Valley Catholic conference play and the 17th over league opposition in the last three seasons.

The Zephyrs were confronted by a tight zone and much of the time were out-

Koerner rebounded by the smaller Becker Springs. They frequently tossed the ball away but still could have won in a breeze but for some poor free throw shooting. (They made only eight of 23).

But on the credit side, the locals conducted themselves as true champions by coming through when the going got tough and by keeping their poise in the face of the Fondy challenges.

7-Point Lead
This fracas was close all the way. The Zephyrs never led by more than seven points and they had that margin just once, in the fourth quarter, when they came away from a 28-all tie with a string of seven.

Springs scored the first three baskets of the game and St. Mary didn't break into the scoring column until 3:45 had been played when Bill Becker hooped a free throw. The visitors battled back confidently, tied the score at 7 - all and then had the lead at 9-8 at the close of the period.

The victors had 4-point bulges a couple of times in the second period but lost them and it took a free throw by Jerry Laemmrich to give them a 17-16 advantage at halftime.

The score was tied 21-all at one juncture in the third segment and St. Mary owned 25-21 and 28-23 advantages. The Zephyr spread was an unsteady 28-25 going into the last frame.

Paul Kremer, Springs' most dangerous scorer, made a free throw and shortly thereafter hit a long shot to deadlock the issue at 28-apiece.

It was at this time that the Menasha lads got down to business. Becker scored on a long shot, Mike Herliche tallied a short jump shot and Dean Schreiner stole the ball and converted the basket for a 34-28 lead. Jim Koerner made it seven straight points with a free throw. There was 5:07 left to play at the time.

Free Throw Contest
The rest of the game was mainly a free throw contest. During one stretch the Zephyrs made only one of seven free throws and they missed five in a row. In the fourth frame they failed on five first circuit Saturday night at shots of bonus plays (a pos-

St. Mary JV Squad Bows In Overtime

Fond du Lac — Springs' Jayvees kept their perfect Fox Valley Catholic conference record intact by defeating the St. Mary reserves 82-50 in an overtime here Saturday night. Springs owns five straight wins. St. Mary has a 2-2 mark.

St. Mary led 13-12 at the quarter but trailed 25-23 at halftime. The Ledgers held a 36-34 margin at the close of three frames. The Zephyrs had a 48-44 lead with a couple of minutes left to play but Springs hit the last two goals of the final period, knotting the score at 48-all.

Fundy scored first in the overtime but Dave Eckholm tied the score with a basket with 50 seconds left. Ten seconds later, the Ledgers'

Unitas, Hornung, Lipscomb Spark West's Pro Bowl Win

East Absorbs 38-21 Beating In Coliseum

Los Angeles —(AP)— The accurate arm of Johnny Unitas, the dogged defensive play of Gene "Big Daddy" Lipscomb and the talented toe of Paul Hornung proved a winning combination in the tenth annual Pro bowl.

The West walloped the East, 38-21, Sunday for its sixth triumph in the National Football league's all-star series.

Unitas Hornung
A crowd of 56,876 in the coliseum saw Baltimore's Unitas, named the game's most valuable player, toss three touchdown passes, all in the first half, for a new Pro bowl record.

Green Bay's Hornung scored one touchdown, kicked a field goal and five conversions for a total of 14 points, another record.

The West's defensive line was led by Baltimore's Lipscomb, named the game's top lineman. They held the East running game to a scant 59 yards.

Y. A. Tittle of San Francisco spelled Unitas and tossed seven strikes in a row during a second-quarter touchdown drive. He completed 13 of 18 passes.

Oshkosh — Oshkosh's pre-season "team to beat" rating may be a mystery to some members of the basketball fraternity — but not to Appleton High School's Terrors.

In making believers out of the Terrors, 70-61, here Saturday night, the currently-sixth place Indians were the best Fox River Valley conference team AHS has met to date.

Find Victory Formula

After being selected the title favorite, the Oshkosh quintet inexplicably lost its first four league games (three by narrow margins). The Indians discovered the victory formula at Sheboygan North last Friday night, then took another swig of the magic elixir Saturday night and terminated the Terrors' stay in the highest of FRVC places after a mere 24 hours.

Before the Indians went on the warpath against them, Terror defenders had restricted FRVC offenses to these modest point totals: 45, 47, 45, 44 and 43. Oshkosh's 70-point storm blew down this enviable record, handed the Terrors their second loss in six conference games and dropped

Alignment Appears to Be Key Issue

BY RALPH BERNSTEIN

Miami Beach, Fla. — (AP)— One word—"alignment" could be the key to whether the National Football league expands this year.

The league's executive committee met for an hour Sunday night and voted favorably to consider at Wednesday's annual meeting franchise applications from Dallas, St. Louis, Miami and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Acting Commissioner Austin H. Gansel said a majority vote of the executive committee — comprising one representative from each of the 12 clubs—approved the move. He refused to disclose the vote, but a reliable source said it was 10-2.

'Agreeable' Schedule

The word "alignment" crept into the picture when several club owners were asked just what they meant by favoring expansion. The owners, who declined to be identified, said they thought the league should expand if a satisfactory alignment of the two conferences could be agreed on.

Also, an "agreeable" schedule and method of allotting players to new clubs would be necessary before new teams were admitted.

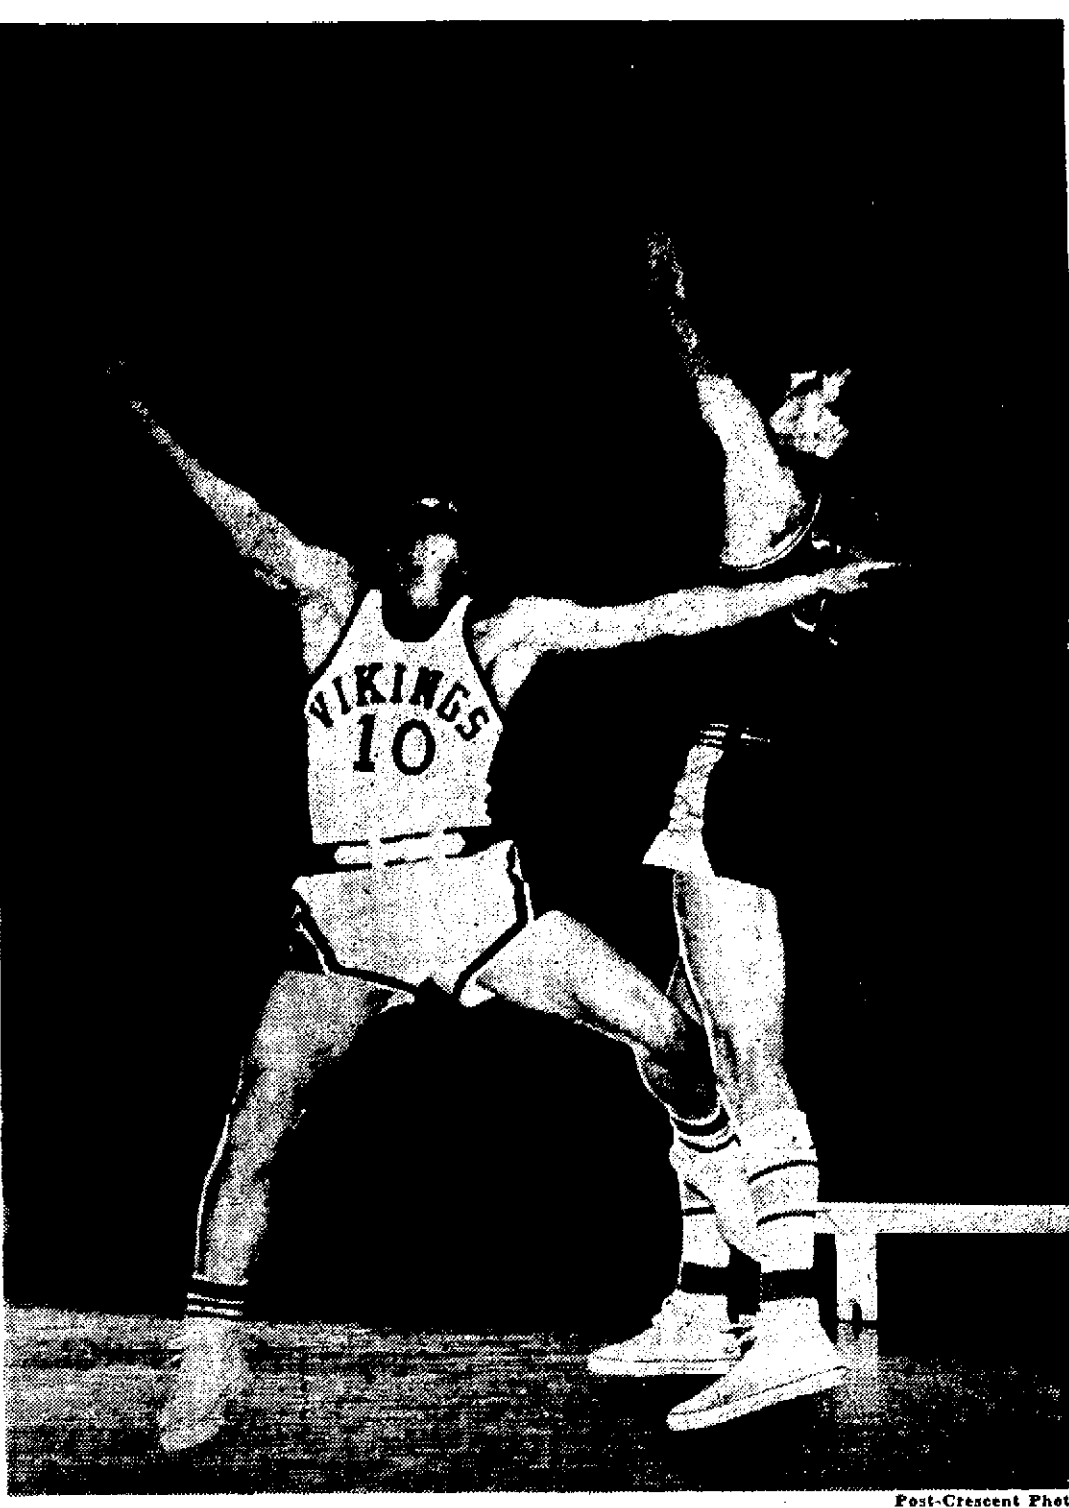

Losing Fight?

The vote to consider the four franchise applications was cast along the lines of expansion feeling. Ten clubs have indicated a desire to consider expansion. Now, George Preston Marshall of Washington and Walter Wolfner of the Cardinals are against adding any teams.

Marshall remains firm in his belief that the league should remain a 12-club circuit.

However, he could be waging a losing fight unless he gets at least one more team to join the Redskins and Car-

Coe college's basketball Kohawks fought fire with fire Saturday night in Lawrence college's Alexander gym.

Playing a team which had shot a blistering 46 per cent from the field to beat Grinnell the night before, Coe hit an even better 49 per cent to discourage any upset ideas Lawrence may have harbored.

Sixth MC Win

The result was 78-58 Midwest conference triumph, the talented visitors' sixth in nine MC starts, and seventh in 10 games, overall. Lawrence, in the midst of its best season in five winters, is now 3-7 in league play and 3-9 overall.

The Vikes conclude first semester activities with a game at Cornell Wednesday night.

"Chuck" Knocke and Jim Rasmussen, who had totaled 43 the night before against Grinnell, poured home 35 in Saturday's losing effort. Rasmussen, finally out of a season-long slump, buzzed home seven fielders in 14 shots and finished with 19. Hard-driving Knocke counted 16, just the second time all season he failed to lead his club offensively.

Carl Froebel, a 6-5 senior from Webster Groves, Mo., paced the Kohawks with 22 tallies. Hooking with both hands and deadly on a medium-range jumper, Froebel buried eight of 16 shots. He also was the game's top rebounder, with 13.

Both clubs shot 63 times against enemy man-for-man defenses. The winners swished 31 field goals, Lawrence 21 (for 33 per cent). Both made 16 free throws, Lawrence in 22 attempts for a .727 rate, Coe in 21 tries for a .762.

16 Fouls

The visitors broke open a tight game with a sizzling stretch of shooting late in the first half.

Coe counted the game's first six points but Lawrence battled back and got as close as two (24-22) on a Knocke free

Jon Gilliam, 14th Choice of Packers, Signs for 1960

Green Bay — Jon Gilliam, fourteenth draft choice of the Green Bay Packers, was signed to a contract to play in 1960, according to Head Coach and General Manager Vince Lombardi. He played his college ball at East Texas State.

The 6'2", 215-pound center and linebacker was Honorable Mention All-Lone Star conference as a junior in 1958 and made the Dallas News All-Texas college team in 1959. He has good speed and is considered by pro scouts and coaches to be aggressive and tough.

The 21-year-old Gilliam played high school ball in Dallas, Texas, where he now makes his home.

Also Rap Millers Bobcats Record 6-3 Win Over Olympians

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Green Bay's Bobcats, patriots all the rest of the year, committed treason against the United States of America here Sunday night.

They spotted the favored U.S. Olympians a 2-0 lead, then torpedoed Uncle Sam's finest with a 5-goal burst in the second period, that triggered a 6-3 victory over the previously unbeaten Yanks at the Arena.

The Bobcats thus ended a 6-game winning streak for the Olympians, only Saturday night 5-4 conquerors of the Philadelphia Ramblers, eastern hockey league leaders.

This item added sheen to the home talent's achievement, witnessed by 3,827 highly vocal patrons.

The twelfth straight victory for Player - Coach Johnny Mayasich and his ambitious athletes, it also overshadowed an 8-3 conquest at the expense of the Minneapolis Millers in a Central Hockey league match Saturday night, also on Arena ice, before 2,766 fans.

Irresistible on attack, particularly in that explosive second period, and impenetrable on defense for the most part, the Bobcats decimated the Olympians with a spectacular 3-goal salvo in the incredibly short span of 1 minute and 32 seconds.

That lightning like barrage staked the Bobcats to a permanent lead and threw the Yanks into a state of confusion.

The Hawks, like Lourdes a new school with just freshman and sophomore classes, built their record to 7-3. Xavier's next game is Wednesday night, at Fond du Lac Lutheran.

Ten players scored for Xavier Sunday with "Chuck" Lueck's 15 points leading the way. Lueck collected 15 rebounds. Kerry Young also helped a lot on the boards and counted 11 tallies for the second straight game. Paul Zeegers coined 13.

Mike Schumeth paced the losers with 13 points.

The Hawks did their best free throwing of the season with 20 makes in 34 attempts for 59 per cent. Lourdes hit just 11 of 30. The Hawks pressed most of the way. They were on top, 19-7, after a big first quarter and increased their lead in each succeeding stanza.

St. Norbert Quintet Splits Weekend Tilts

Davenport, Iowa —(AP)— St. Norbert broke even in a weekend basketball invasion of Iowa, losing to St. Ambrose, 68-67, Sunday after defeating Loras at Dubuque, 79-68, Saturday night.

St. Ambrose scored 60 points in the second half as John Cahill netted 17 of his 23 points. Bill Feller was high for the Green Knights with 32 points.

St. Norbert was out-shot from the floor by Loras but sank 25 of 34 free throw attempts. Menasha's Mike Wisneski tallied 25 points for St. Norbert, 13 of them on gift tosses.

Electrical System Out Plane Carrying Laker Quintet Lands 'Without a Scratch' in Cornfield

Carroll, Iowa —(AP)— An airplane carrying the Minneapolis Lakers professional basketball team flew its course in the dark during a heavy snow storm early today and was landed "without a scratch" in a cornfield near here.

There was no injury to the squad or the club guests aboard, 23 in all. A Carroll fireman, Henry Roth, who had heard the plane in the air, said it was "awful lucky" to make the landing.

Minutes after the successful landing a motorcade of 10 cars brought the plane's passengers and crews to town where they went to bed in a motel.

The plane had left St. Louis after Sunday's game, lost by the Lakers, 135-119, and were 45 minutes away from Minneapolis, when the electrical system went out. There were no plane lights, radio or flight dials to guide the crew.

Ullman continued on his flight plan until the possibility of running out of gasoline showed.

Ullman considered heading for Kansas City but decided to try for Minneapolis.

"We flew fairly high, until about 1:30 a.m. (CST)," Ryan said. "By then we were down to about 300 feet."

The crew noticed a town, though it was unidentifiable, and sought a landing place. The plane circled over Carroll twice and avoided a water tower and high tension lines in coming down in the cornfield.

"With the couple of squeaks, Ullman came down in a foot of snow, a wonderful landing," said Ryan.

It is a DC-3, owned by the Lakers, but flown for them by Gopher Aviation company of Rochester, Minn.

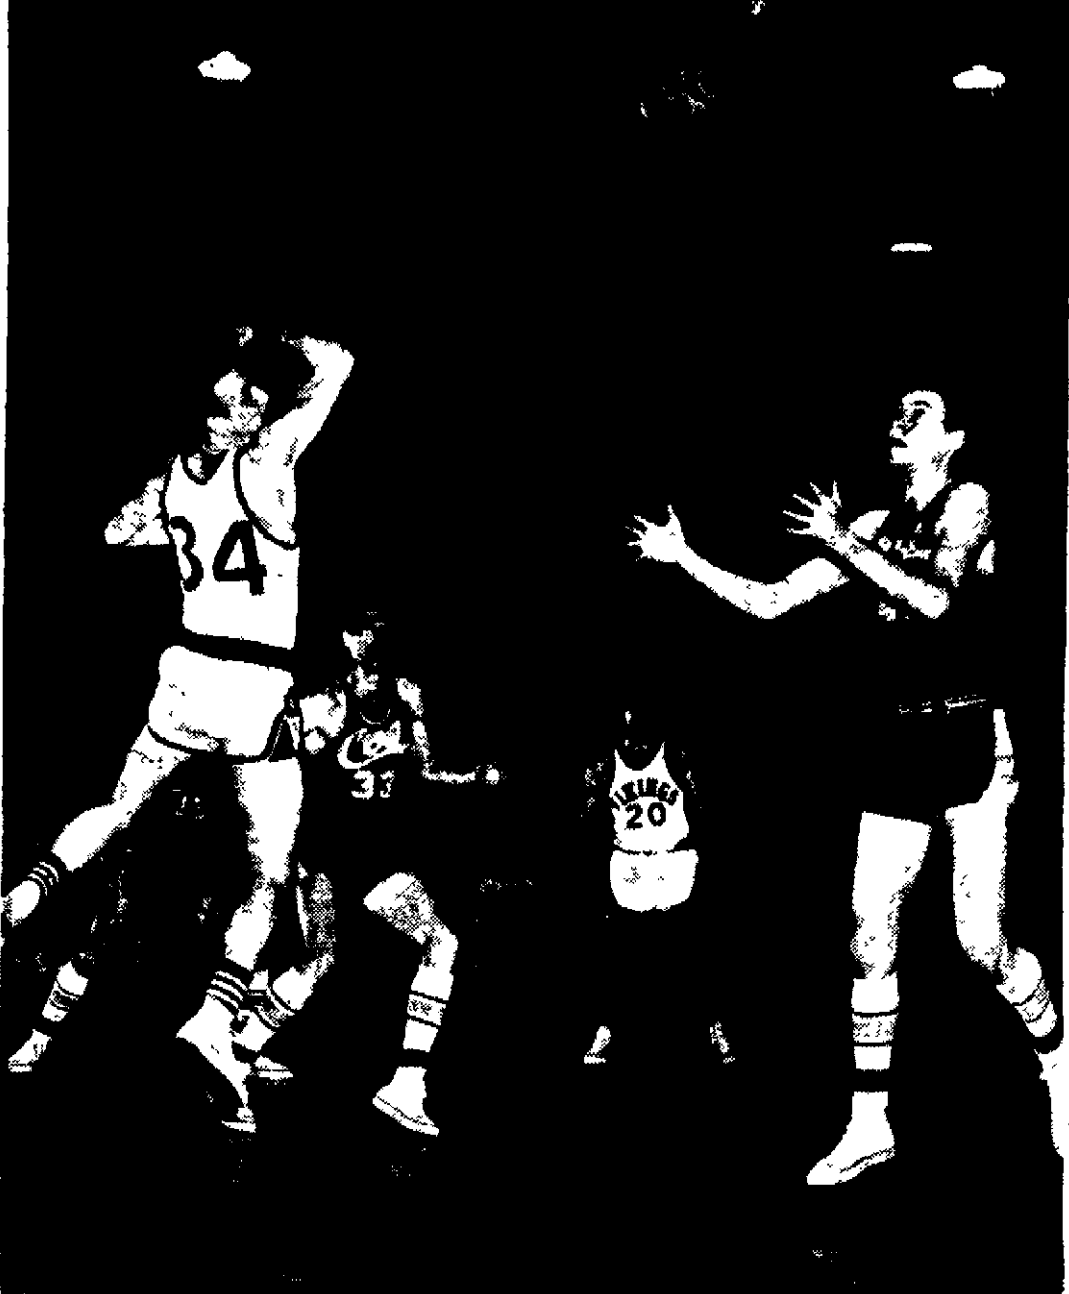

Aboard the plane were Laker Coach Jim Pollard and his young son, 10; members of the squad; Ryan, his wife and two children, Mike, 14 and Mary, 10; Dr. and Mrs. Ben Bofenkamp of Minneapolis, and two other passengers and the crew.

Oshkosh Jars Terrors Out of FRVC Co-Lead

ped them from the co-lead into a tie for second.

AHS meets another strong offensive team, Sheboygan Central, here Friday night as the hectic FRVC race reaches the halfway mark. Saturday night, Central lost, 59-54, to Green Bay West, the new undisputed leader. Fond du Lac also dropped out of the co-lead because of a 57-55 setback at Manitowish.

The proudest witness in the capacity crowd of 1,000 here Saturday undoubtedly was Gene Englund, Sr. The famed former Wisconsin Badger and pro Oshkosh All-Star saw his 6-foot-5 offspring play his finest game.

33-Point Salvo

The Junior Englund was just about the ultimate prep basketball weapon as he fired a 33-point salvo at the Terrors. Getting excellent position for shooting and rebounding, the quick, young giant lit up the board on 13 of 21 field goal tries and seven of 10 free throw attempts.

Englund was mainly responsible for keeping AHS' meager Oshkosh-floor victory total at one for Coach Dick Emanuel's 7-season tenure (Only in 1958 were Emanuel's Terrors able to win here). Earlier in the season, the Terrors had cracked the Manitowish floor jinx — but mashing two hexes of such huge proportions in one season proved too big a task.

If it was Englund on offense, it was the Oshkosh zone on defense that proved AHS' undoing. After the Terrors had scorched the cords in a 9-for-15 first quarter demonstration, Coach Don Erickson made defensive revisions, and Oshkosh played principally the zone thereafter. It was Fond du Lac's use of the zone that had been responsible for the Terrors' only other conference loss.

Fittingly enough an Englund basket (with 3 minutes, 34 seconds gone in the third quarter) gave Oshkosh a never-to-be-relinquished lead. Though the Indians expanded that 43-42 lead to 54-46 in the early minutes of the fourth quarter, a big order of pulse-quickenng basketball still awaited the intrigued customers.

Englund Streaks In

John Nussbaum sank a 15-footer to cut the Terror deficit to 54-48. Englund, however, streaked in for a lay-up to restore his team's 8-point cushion.

"Lud" Lodholz cut the deficit to six after a perfect pass from Paul Vander Heyden. Dave LaViolette arched through a long one to bring AHS to within four points (56-52) with 5:15 to go. Englund's short jumper made it 58-52. After Nussbaum hit from the corner, Englund made one of two from the foul line.

LaViolette zeroed in from 15 feet to cut the hosts' lead to three, and Nussbaum connected from the same neighborhood — and the Terrors were within a whisker (59-58) of catching Oshkosh with 3:20 remaining.

While this AHS comeback was going on, Oshkosh was in the midst of a horrendous free throw slump. After sinking their first eight tries in the game, the Indians missed nine of their next 11. This could have been fatal to Oshkosh's upset plan if the Terrors hadn't suddenly lost the field goal range.

Four times, while the Terrors were within one and two (60-58) points of a tie, long missiles launched over the Oshkosh zone were misguided. And, as was so often the case throughout, each was a 1-shot situation, for Oshkosh invariably hauled down the rebound off its own board.

Fast-Break Goal

The Indians got a little breathing room, when Ron Kaat caught the Terrors napping on a fast break. Tom Peroutky added insurance on two free throws with 1:57 left, and Englund sealed AHS' doom, at 66-58, with another pair of foul-line swishers.

Ironically, the Terrors came up with their season's highest field goal total and their biggest FRVC point sum in a losing cause. After a pair of recent unimpressive shooting performances (in winning games), AHS produced a field goal accuracy mark of 42.3 per cent (29 for 68).

In fact, basketwise, the Terrors did Oshkosh one better, 29 to 28, but couldn't compete in the free throw department — simply because their opportunities were so limited.

While Oshkosh got 24 foul-line chances (making 14 of them) out of 14 AHS personal, the Terrors had only six unimpeded shots (sinking three).

Despite the aggressive way they patrolled their zones, the Indians were detected, violating foul - rule provisions only five times all night by officials Mel Nicks and Carl Steffen. The bonus situation was a and tall boys Abel and Vander Heyden.

Illinois, Gophers To Clash Tonight

Ohio State Trips NU, 81-64, Remains Unbeaten in Big 10 and Minnesota all scored Big Ten triumphs Saturday. Ohio State defeated Northwestern, 81-64, Iowa bounced Purdue, 63-54, Illinois thumped Michigan State, 96-88, and Minnesota crushed Michigan, 74-58. Minnesota was the only team to win away from home.

Conference activity will be limited for a while with four games this week and four more next.

Saturday's schedule finds Iowa at Michigan State in a regionally - televised matinee. Minnesota at Northwestern and Ohio State at Purdue.

Slowdown Tactics

Northwestern's slowdown tactics and zone defense failed to harass the Buckeyes Saturday. Sophomore Jerry Lucas dumped in 28 points to lead the victory.

Iowa's Hawkeyes put the lid on Purdue and sophomore Terry Dischinger. Dischinger scored 20 points, far short of his 34-plus average.

Horace Walker scored 30 points for Michigan State and Lance Olson added 28 but got little help from anyone else and Illinois' balanced attack helped down the defending champions. John Wessels, Governor Vaughn and Mannie Jackson had 25, 24 and 19 points, respectively, for the Illini.

Bradley Chops Down Bearcat Five, 91 to 90

Home Court Helps Braves Bounce Last of Unbeaten

By The Associated Press

The bulk of the major college basketball teams turn full attention to the classroom for mid - term exams this week, leaving unanswered the question of which is the nation's best.

Bradley's giant - killing Braves and their invincible home court at Peoria, Ill., chopped down Cincinnati's clear - cut claim to No. 1 last Saturday with a sizzling 91-90 defeat of the last major unbeaten.

It was, in fact, wipe-out week among the "unbeatable," with the three other perfect record clubs of a week ago also falling. First it was Texas A&M, beaten by Southern Methodist Tuesday night. Then LaSalle, defeated by Syracuse on Wednesday, before Villanova, beaten by West Virginia, 89-81, and top - ranked Cincinnati fell Saturday night.

Race Jumbled

Now the race for the top national rankings is thoroughly jumbled, with a half - dozen or more teams presenting impressive credentials.

Besides Cincinnati, which holds an 86-71 earlier victory over Bradley, there's defending NCAA champion California (14-1), West Virginia (15-1), Bradley (12-1) and Georgia Tech (13-1) in the front line.

Behind them Ohio State (11-2), the twin Skyline powers of Utah State (13-2) and Utah (13-2), Texas A&M (11-1), Villanova (10-1), and Miami (Fla.), holder of a 15-1 record and an 11-game win streak that's now best among the major schools.

Junior Terrors Score Third Win in a Row

Defeat Oshkosh To Even Record For League Play

Oshkosh — The fast-moving Junior basketball Terrors evened their Fox River Valley junior varsity conference record by defeating Oshkosh, 46-40, Saturday night.

John Manier and Tom Lonigro paced the Appleton entry to its third straight win. Guard Mike Lee added 10 points.

With Lonigro scoring six points and Manier five, the visitors jumped to a 13-8 first quarter lead and were never caught. The Junior Indians came within one point on three separate occasions in the third quarter, but the outside shooting of Lee and Lonigro kept them at bay.

Dick Radditz topped Oshkosh scoring with 15 points.

Eddie Mathews Will Appear Wednesday in New London

New London — Eddie Mathews, home run king of the Milwaukee Braves, will be guest speaker Wednesday night during a meeting of the Inter-City Shrine club in the Elwood hotel.

Mathews, whose 46 home runs led the major leagues last year, will be accompanied by Joe Theriault, manager of Mathews Enterprises, a construction firm specializing in building homes.

He is expected to arrive here about 4 p.m. Wednesday and will visit with some of the long-time baseball fans at the Golden Age home. He also will make appearances at various other places to meet some of the younger sports fans.

Dr. John W. Monsted, president of the Inter-City Shrine club, made the arrangements for the speaker. The club has members in Waupaca, Shawano, Clintonville, Marion, Manawa, Hortonville, Weyauwega and Shiocton.

St. Louis —(U)— Bob Pettit, the bachelor business man, had just reached the select 10,000-point circle of pro basketball and was talking with boss Ben Kerner in the St. Louis Hawks dressing room. The topic of discussion: tax deductions.

This wasn't surprising because the former Louisiana State All-America personifies the ballplayer-businessman of modern sports. Bob is an easy-going, quiet, well-mannered young man. He never lets his ego or his temper get out of hand. He makes about $40,000 a year, $25,000 of it from the Hawks.

"I just play each game as it comes, one at a time, and never set any goals for myself or shoot for records," Bob said.

Pettit reached the 10,000-point plateau at the age of 27. It took him roughly 5 1/2 seasons.

29.2 Average
The 6-foot-9 scorer-rebounder rewrote the National Basketball association record book last season with 2,105 points and a 29.2 average. This season his average is 26.5, second best of his career, but his rebounding and passing are the best of his career.

Only nine other players in NBA history have reached the 10,000 mark and none were close to his career average of 25.1. He scored 34 in the Hawks' 135-119 victory over Minneapolis Sunday.

In other games Sunday, the Boston Celtics, leaders of the Eastern Division, defeated the Philadelphia Warriors, 129-123. The Syracuse Nationals turned back the New York Knickerbockers, 129-117, and the Detroit Pistons outscored the Cincinnati Royals, 115-110.

Wisconsin - Milwaukee, undefeated in State College conference basketball action, won its fourth straight league game Saturday night but needed a rally in the last two minutes to turn back Oshkosh, 85-83.

Jerry Grackowski was the game's top scorer with 28 points for UW-M. Ron Dibelius tossed in 22 for Oshkosh.

3rd Place Tie

The Titans fell into a third-place tie with Stout, 84-73, victor over River Falls, loser of all four conference starts. The Falcons led, 38-34, at the intermission but Stout regained the lead for keeps about midway in the second period.

John Mikalko, Fred Seggelink and Don Severson tossed in 20 points apiece for Stout. John Lauber popped in 20 for the Falcons.

In other games, Platteville beat Stevens Point, 88-85, in overtime and Eau Claire topped La Crosse, 84-73.

The La Crosse defeat was the fourth in league play for the Indians, led by the 26 points of Gar Ammerman.

Kotlarek Equals Record, Cops Duluth Invitational Tourney

Duluth, Minn. —(U)— Gene Kotlarek dazzled a hometown crowd Sunday by equaling the Fond du Lac hill record of 226 feet in winning the Duluth Invitational Ski tournament.

Kotlarek, a 19-year-old Olympic contender, chalked up the record-matching effort on his second jump after he had leaped 222 feet. He collected a total of 233.5 points to outdistance defending champion Billy Olson of Eau Claire, Wis. Olson's best was 203 feet.

Considered the nation's brightest hope in the Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., Kotlarek equaled the Fond du Lac record set in 1954 by Joe Nowak, also of Duluth.

Olson's other jump of 199 feet gave him a point total of 210.9. Olson also is a member of the Olympic group.

The tournament was the 1st for Kotlarek and the other Olympic hopefuls before rejoining the U. S. squad in training at Ishpeming, Mich., where a team of eight will be picked later this month from a field of 30-40 riders expected to take part in trial jumps.

Bob Lawler of Eau Claire, won the Veteran's title.

WIAA Relaxes Grid, Cage Practice Rules

Cut Days Required Before 1st Scrimmage; Seek Bid to Televis State Tournament

Stevens Point —(U)— Bowing to protests from throughout the state, The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association has relaxed football and basketball practice regulations.

The action was taken Saturday at a meeting during which the board of control also indicated it also is open to a bid for television rights to the annual state high school basketball tournament.

Former football and basketball practice rules were protested because in some cases, they prohibited teams from inter-school scrimmages until after the first games had been played. The changes were proposed by the coaches' association.

The changes require nine days of practice instead of 14 prior to an inter-school scrimmage in football, and seven practice days instead of 10 in basketball. However, the board imposed these limitations on inter-school scrimmages:

No kickoffs, fair catch on all punts, no scores or records kept, 2-hour duration, and only one such scrimmage before opening game.

Favors Television

The board discussed televising all or part of the annual basketball tournament at Madison, said it favors television, but added it has not had any offers.

The board approved these changes in basketball tournament assignments:

Lancaster to the Fennimore sub-regional; Preble to the Green Bay East sub-regional; New London to the Waupaca sub-regional; and Oostburg to the Kohler sub-regional, and the finals of the Rhinelander - Superior Central regional were assigned to Superior Central.

Also approved by the board was a proposal from the Junior High School Principals association, asking the WIAA to work with the association, through direct affiliation, in the development, organization and administration of junior high athletic programs.

John Hahn, Superior Central, was elected chairman of the WIAA Advisory council and Ronald Van Slyke of Hurley was re-elected vice chairman.

Bobcats Score Win Over U. S. Olympians

ion. They, as a matter of fact, never recovered from that thunderbolt, although they did manage to outscore the home forces, 1-0 in a largely defensive final period.

Seven Players

No less than seven players figured in the Cats' 6-goal production, crew cut Pete Buchmann leading the way with two goals and two assists.

Dick Dier, Gerry Marttila, Dick Dougherty and Mayasich also collected goals, Marttila adding two assists and Dier, Dougherty and Jackie Poole one apiece.

Weldy Olson, the 27-year-old veteran from Marquette, Mich., shot the Olympians in to their quick 2-0 lead, 19-year-old Tom Williams from Duluth, rated the team's top prospect, adding the other U. S. goal in the third period after the issue had been settled.

The big break came without warning, after the Bobcats tied it up, 2-2, at 7:49 of the second period when Dier uncorked a flat shot from near the blue line that skidded under goalie Bob Palmer's pads and into the net.

Three minutes later, the aroused 'Cats delivered the haymaker. Marttila, bursting out of a scramble, slapped the puck past Palmer into the left corner of the net, Buchmann and Dougherty assisting, at 10:46 to give the Bobcats the lead for the first time.

Just 34 seconds later, Dougherty skated across from the left, just after a faceoff, and rifled a 20-foot into the cords for a 4-2 Green Bay lead.

Buchmann Scores
Less than a minute (58 seconds to be exact) elapsed before Buchmann left the Olympians thoroughly disorganized.

Eddie Machen Will Battle Folley Tonight

Heavyweights Hope To Atone for Dull Draw of April, 1958

San Francisco —(U)— Heavyweights Eddie Machen and Zora Folley both go out with a lot to prove tonight when they battle over 12 rounds or less at the Cow palace.

First, they both want to be considered worthy challengers for the title held by Ingemar Johansson.

Secondly, when they met here on April 9, 1958, a charitable word to describe the action was dull. That one ended in a draw amid boos from fans who thought Folley had won and fans who didn't think they'd seen a good fight.

After that bout, Machen was knocked out by Johansson in one round and Folley lost a disputed decision to England's Henry Cooper to further deflate their stock. Both say things will be much different this time. Each won seven without a loss in 1958.

with no. 5 at 12:18, a shot that goalie Palmer deflected but couldn't hold. It bounced off his glove and into the cage at 12:18.

Although a full period remained, it was all over at 19:27 when the gifted Mayasich, chief architect of this memorable victory, rocketed the puck past Palmer from the blue line at 19:27, following an assist from Dier.

Rarely did the Bobcats permit the Olympians out of their defensive zone in that blistering second period, so completely did they dominate the play.

In Saturday night's match with the Millers, the Bobcats ran up a 3-0 lead, gave the faithful a few anxious moments in the second period when they permitted Minneapolis to pull up to 4-2, then left the Gophers behind in the final period.

Dougherty, the league's leading scorer who emerged with a 7-point weekend, set the pace here with five points, including a pair of goals. Marttila chipped in with two goals and an assist, Poole had three assists, Horn and Buchmann each counted a goal and an assist and Dier two assists.

Maki Second

Rudy Maki, Ishpeming, Mich., was second with 209.8 points with leaps of 177 and 179 feet. Steve Reischl, Minneapolis, was third with efforts of 172 and 187 feet for a total of 209.6 points.

Maki and Reischl also are candidates for the Olympic team.

West Virginia Decides to Retain Lewis as Coach

Morgantown, W.Va. —(U)— Art "Pappy" Lewis will be back next fall as West Virginia university's head football coach, but he is, in effect, on probation.

University President Elvin J. Stahr Jr. took the unusual step of delivering a public reprimand to Lewis over a statewide radio hookup Sunday, in announcing the school's Board of Governors had decided to keep Lewis on the payroll.

Lewis, who will be 49 next month, makes $13,100 a year. Stahr, who said Lewis was kept on "by the skin of his teeth," has been president only since last fall. "Pappy" has been around for 10 years.

Samuelstuen Wins Crown Leaps 190 Feet In Defense of Norge Ski Title

Chicago —(U)— Ansten Samuelstuen, a candidate for the U.S. Olympic team, successfully defended his Norge Ski meet championship Sunday with leaps of 183 and 190 feet for an unofficial point total of 217.1.

It was the third Norge title for the Steamboat Springs, Colo., competitor who was one of 13 members of the Olympic Ski jumping and training squad competing in the meet.

Samuelstuen, who also won the Norge championship in 1957, had the day's longest leap with his effort of 190 feet.

Maki Second

Rudy Maki, Ishpeming, Mich., was second with 209.8 points with leaps of 177 and 179 feet. Steve Reischl, Minneapolis, was third with efforts of 172 and 187 feet for a total of 209.6 points.

Express Agency To End Service In 4 Cities

PSC OKs Closing Offices After Giving Notice

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—The Railway Express agency has been granted authority by the public service commission to close its offices and local service at Kaukauna, Kimberly, Hortonville and Brillion after giving 30 days notice to its customers and to the state agency.

The four communities will be served with pick-up and delivery service of the Appleton agency station, with daily transportation afforded except on Saturday and Sunday. The agency told the state regulatory authority that the economies resulting would be greater than the extra vehicular and communications cost for its Appleton operation. Telephone calls to Appleton are on a local exchange basis for three of the communities, and Brillion customers will be invited to call the Appleton station on a collect basis.

Billing Point The commission said Appleton would become the only billing point for all traffic handled within its expanded terminal area, and that there would be no express traffic handled between the four terminal towns. But the order explained that there is no evidence of any traffic being handled between those points now.

The station abandonment order follows action of the commission last November permitting the express company to end local transportation service in the four communities.

Rotarians to Hear Talk on PSC Duties

Arthur L. Padrutt, Madison, a member of the state public service commission, will speak on the duties and functions of the commission at the noon luncheon meeting of the Appleton Rotary club Tuesday at the Conway hotel.

The title of his talk is "Dollars and Cents, or, Nobody Loves the Umpire."

Reports Theft of Gum Ball Machines

Milnor Thompson, 1124 W. Parkway boulevard, has reported to Appleton police the theft of two gum ball machines sometime during the last two weeks.

The machines, valued at $32 each, were taken from the Outagamie county courthouse lobby and from Colman hall at Lawrence college.

Nelson Says Need for Funds GOP Problem

Governor Still Irked Over Republican
Controlled Senate Rejection of Budget

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson, still irked at the Republican-controlled senate's rejection of his budget, said today he now considers the problem of raising money to meet 1960-61 needs a GOP responsibility.

Nelson told his weekly news conference the budget Wisconsin now will operate under during the second year of the biennium is $24 million short of balancing.

"They (the Republicans) are going to have to get around to doing something about it," he said.

Endless Mess The governor said he would not insist that action on necessary taxes be taken before an impending legislative recess is called.

"But there are an endless number of messes in the budget that must be taken care of and the Republicans now must accept responsibility to do it," he said.

Nelson said the senate's rejection of his proposed budget for 1960-61 leaves Wisconsin with a fiscal course "that has no plan to it at all."

"It's just an arbitrary extension of last year's figures," the governor said, "and this is going to cause some substantial inconveniences."

Nelson said he had no favored date on which he would like to see the legislature reconvene following a recess generally believed to come this week.

Initiate Taxes "May 15 or June 1 or any time right around there would be all right with me," he said.

He added that when the legislature does return, the GOP will have to initiate taxes to balance the coming fiscal year unless the party chooses to act on his proposal to boost income tax rates three-fourths of 1 per cent.

That proposal has been tabled by the senate.

"It'll be a Republican tax session when they come back," Nelson said, "I hope there's no mistake about it."

In Blueberry Marsh

Bear Creek — The safe stolen from the Bear Creek Lumber company Jan. 8 was found beside a town road in the blueberry marshes four miles southwest of here about 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Clarence Olson, sightseeing in the area, noticed the safe and notified John Dunlavey, lumber company owner, who contacted the Outagamie county sheriff.

The sheriff's office approved Dunlavey's removing papers from the safe and then police took the safe to Appleton Sunday night.

The safe was taken out of the lumber firm office the same night burglars broke into the high school. Robert Dennison, school board president, made a search of the area where the safe was found but discovered nothing. Dunlavey said the papers in the safe appeared to be intact although they were damaged by the elements.

Businessman at Black Creek Dies

Black Creek — Ivar A. Berkabaken, 64, a Black Creek businessman, died at 12:30 a.m. Sunday at New London after a short illness. He was born May 22, 1895, in the town of Lessor. For 20 years he was a partner in the K and B Auto company here and has been a salesman for the Home Mutual Insurance company since his retirement from the garage.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday from the Burdick Funeral home, with Eugene Figliński, of the Assembly of God church, in charge. Burial will be in Highland Memorial park, Appleton. Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Tuesday.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Beverly Disch, Colorado Springs, Colo.; a son, Ivar T., Green Bay; three brothers, Peter, Osborne and Halsdan, all of Bonduel; four sisters, Mrs. Oscar Hovie and Mrs. Myron Dean, both of Bonduel, Mrs. Louis Boerst, Pulaski, and Mrs. Mike Kuhn, Nichols; and three grandchildren.

17 Churches Quit Lutheran Synod

Differences Led to Resignations At Fox Valley Lutheran High

A gap which has been growing between two Lutheran synods for 15 years was widened last week when 17 congregations of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran synod announced they are dropping from that group.

The 17 congregations will join, informally, with 24 congregations which already have left the synod because of differences with the Lutheran church-Missouri synod.

In Appleton, the synodical strife has lead directly or indirectly to the resignation of two staff members at the Fox Valley Lutheran High school.

The most recent was Ron Roehl, an instructor and freshman basketball coach at the parochial high school. According to the Rev. Harold Warnke, principal, Roehl accepted a call to Immanuel Lutheran college, Mankato Minn., after submitting his resignation papers.

Now a Clerk In September, the Rev. Paul Koch, religion instructor, resigned. He currently is a clerk at the Appleton J. C. Penney company.

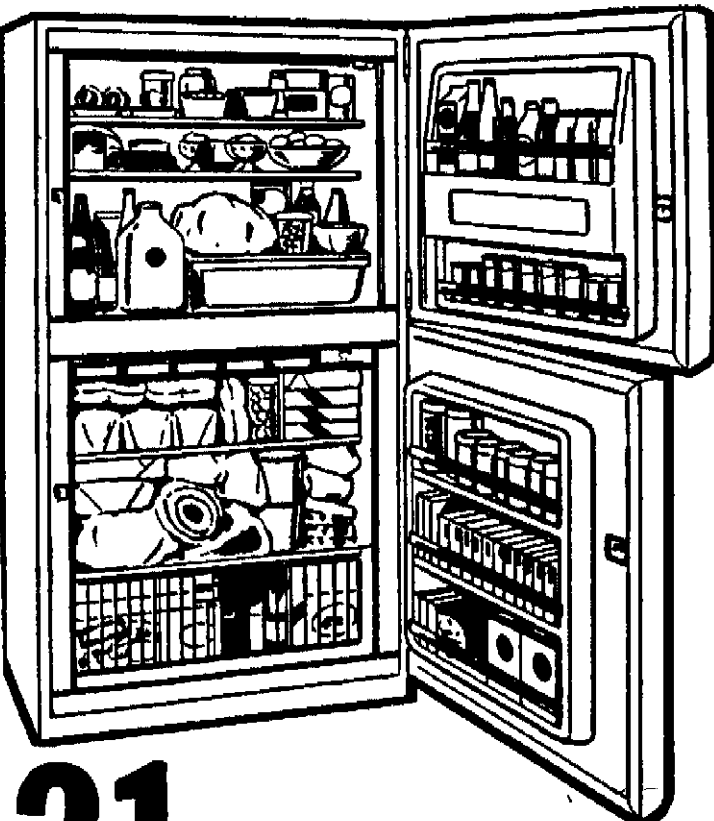

A total of 70 pastors, teachers and professors have separated from the Wisconsin synod and many of them have taken jobs outside the religious field.

The congregations have split independently because they are dissatisfied with the Wisconsin synod's failure to split as a body with its sister Missouri synod.

split, although all have strong feelings about the issue.

One said he didn't think congregations were wise in leaving the synod because if the issue came to a vote in a synodical conference there would be fewer votes on the side of separation.

Committees from both synods currently are studying the issue and a report is expected at the Wisconsin synodical conference in 1961.

Most Appleton pastors said they feel chances for reconciliation are slight, although one said he thought there is a 50-50 chance of reuniting.

Another Appleton Wisconsin synod pastor said he thought eventually the Lutheran church would be divided into two factions—liberal and conservative—in all synods.

Tipsy Drivers Lose License

Rural Waupaca Man Arrested After Accident

Two men have been fined $100 each and will lose their drivers' licenses for one year on drunken driving charges.

Fined were Hubert Peters, 56, route 4, Waupaca, and Thomas P. Dunn, 46, 416 Grant street, Oshkosh.

Peters was arrested by Waupaca county police after a head-on collision Dec. 31 on Highway 10 two miles west of Waupaca. He tested .17 on the breathalyzer.

Dunn changed his plea from innocent to no contest and was fined by Herbert J. Mueller, acting municipal judge at Oshkosh, Friday.

Dunn was arrested Dec. 13 on Highway 41 in the town of Vinland by the state highway patrol. He pleaded innocent at arraignment Dec. 14.

Snow Is Expected Tonight in northern New England and northern New York state with snow flurries forecast for the central Great Lakes, Ohio and Tennessee valleys and the northern Mississippi valley. Snow also may fall in the northern Rockies with flurries throughout the rest of the Rockies. Rain is expected in the central Appalachians and along the Atlantic coast from southern New England to Florida.

Blustery Storm Hits With Wind, Colder Air

Southern Wisconsin Gets Second Blast of Winter Since Friday

A blustery snow storm swept into the Midwest today and piled more white on already stranded southern Wisconsin cities.

Milwaukee reported three inches of snow had fallen by 6 a. m. today. This was an addition to the nine inches which fell Friday.

Snow was falling over much of the state this morning and highways in most sections were slippery.

Roads in the county were reported slippery and driving hazardous this morning. Drifting was reported in rural areas. Flows were out keeping highways open.

More Snow The weatherman calls for four to six more inches of snow for southern sections of the state. Temperatures will start to fall tonight with snow ending The Fox Cities had three tenths of an inch at 11 a. m. today.

The storm, which dumped up to a foot of snow in parts of Colorado, curtailed travel, blocked roads and closed many schools.

The storm was blamed for at least nine deaths, eight of them in accidents on ice-slicked and snow-covered highways. Five were reported in Colorado and three in Illinois. One woman froze to death in Amarillo, Tex.

Cold Snap Coming Heaviest snow during the night, two to four inches, was in southern Iowa and extreme northern Missouri. The fresh falls made a total four to eight inches on the ground.

The snow moved into southern Wisconsin, lower Michigan, northern sections of Illinois and Indiana and headed northeastward.

Snow diminished westward from Iowa and Missouri, with light falls from Kansas into the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. Strong winds caused much drifting in some areas.

Strong northerly winds fan-

Plane Lands On Lake at Weyauwega

Weyauwega — A 4-passenger plane made a successful forced landing in Lake Weyauwega early this morning when freezing rain and generator trouble ended a flight from Minneapolis for a West Bend pilot and his two Milwaukee passengers.

The pilot was Lester Hahn and his passengers were Dennis Hauke and Chester Woerislofer. They were returning from a weekend in Minneapolis.

About 12 30 a. m. today the light Cessna buzzed the city as Hahn sought a landing place. He explained he had attempted to land at the defunct airport about four miles west of the city on Highway 10 but could not make out the runways.

Returning south, he noticed

Car Runs Off Bridge Into Shiocton River

Outagamie county traffic police and the Shiocton fire department were alerted Sunday to aid a car sinking through the ice on the Shiocton river just off the bridge of Highway 187.

Clarence E. Robley, 68, Shawano, ran off the road and onto the ice. First reports were he was in the car and sinking with it, but the auto did not break through the ice and Robley got out.

Fewer Work Hours, More Earnings Expected in 1960s

Economists, Businessmen View Nations Future With Bright Hope

BY WILLIAM FERRIS
New York — You may work fewer hours, make more money, have more fun in the wonderful world of the 1960s.

That's how economists and business men view the future. Their forecasts require, of course, a peaceful decade. Given that, they foresee:

Nearly 81 million people employed by 1970. (It's a little more than 65 million now.)

37 1/2 Hour Week
A work week averaging about 37 1/2 hours. (It's a little more than 40 now; was 63 back in 1880.)

A steady growth in wages with only a little more than 13 per cent of all households having an income of less than $3,000. (It's 20 per cent today.)

Prophecies are always hazardous. For example:

Back in October 1929, just before the Great Depression, the Harvard economic society concluded no serious recession was likely, and if there were, "the federal reserve system would take steps to ease the money market and so check the movement."

Predicted Before
And Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, an eminent economist, said just before the stock price break and depression that stock prices had reached "what looks like a permanently high plateau."

So, a prudent man will take his predictions with a grain of salt.

Nevertheless, men of business and finance are almost unanimous in glowing forecasts for the coming decade which already has been labeled the "soaring sixties," "surging sixties" and "golden sixties." But some see the expected period of climb interrupted by recessions.

Makes Statement
The committee for economic development says:

"If we conduct our economic affairs with intelligence, we can reach a general level of material well being higher than was ever before conceived of as possible."

Says Mills B. Lane, president of the Citizens and Southern National bank, Atlanta, the southeast's largest banking system:

"I expect the greatest 10 years we have ever had. There will be fluctuations, but I look for very strong forward progress. It will be a decade of terrific technological advance."

Estimates GNP
The national planning association estimates that by 1970 the GNP will be $790 billion in terms of the 1958 dollar. It's about 480 billion this year in this year's dollar, about 473 billion in the 1958 dollar.

Gerhard Cohn, chief economist of the national planning association, expects the economic growth rate in the next 10 years to rise 4.2 per cent a year. It averaged 3 per cent in the 1951 to 59 period.

The committee for economic development has figured out that, if the growth rate should average 4 per cent a year, average family income in 1975 would exceed $8,500 after taxes. If the rate is 3 per cent, the income would be $7,500, after taxes.

Fabulous World
Automation and electronics will provide a fabulous new world. Already an electronic brain is controlling a refining unit of Texaco at Port Arthur, Texas. It is now feasible to run a railroad train without any crew aboard.

Suppose you get sick in this new world? What's wrong? Doctors may call upon computers to answer.

Microwave and coaxial cables will link cities and hospitals with central computers. The computers will have stored the symptoms of thousands of diseases. Your symptoms will be fed into the computer for comparison with other symptoms. The computer will diagnose your illness.

Beyond the next 10 years scientists see an era when computers can be talked to through a microphone. Conceivably, computers may give their answers by voice.

Store Automation
Suppose you buy something at a department store. The clerk will ring up the sale. This will punch a tape with the clerk's number, customer's account number, classification of sale, color, size, vendor, taxes, stock number.

These tapes will be fed into a data processing unit to supply the store with overnight reports on inventory, department comparisons, fast and slow selling items and even commissions.

The steel industry expects to increase its capacity by 2 1/2 million tons each year of the decade. Its big emphasis will be on foreign markets. Aluminum probably will expand even faster in view of its widening uses.

Auto Expansion
The automobile industry expects to sell 7 1/2 million cars each year by 1970. This year's total was around 5,600,000.

If you think streets are crowded now with 58 million cars in use, wait for 1970 and 90 million cars. Gas turbine engines will appear in trucks but not in cars. There likely will be more passenger cars with engines in the rear.

The electric utility industry, which has been doubling in size every 8 or 10 years, is expected to do so again in the next decade.

New 4-H Club County Agent Begins Feb. 1
Charles Nikolai Fills Post Vacated By Lowell Pierce

Chilton — Charles Nikolai will be Calumet county's new 4-H club agent, Oscar Kossman, chairman of the agriculture committee, announced Friday afternoon. Nikolai replaces Lowell Pierce, who resigned, effective Feb. 1, to accept a similar position at Waukesha county.

Nikolai, 29, is a native of Marshfield and is a June, 1959, graduate of the University of Wisconsin where he obtained B. S. and M. S. degrees in agriculture and extension education. Last summer he was employed by the extension service and worked in the western portion of the state as agent at large.

The majority of his experience came in the 4-H field although, since his Dec. 14 arrival in Chilton, he has been serving as county agent at large. He was assigned here by the extension service to fill in during the absence of Orrin Meyer who is ill.

The new club agent is married and has three daughters. He hopes to move his family to Chilton within a week. They will reside at a route 1, Chilton, farm home.

Radiation Affects 4 as Jug Breaks

Los Alamos, N. M. — Four men were exposed to radiation Friday when a jug holding plutonium broke at the nuclear laboratory here.

Officials said contamination on the bodies of three scientists and a technician was washed off.

Detailed examinations are being made to see if the men inhaled enough to require special treatment.

The plutonium was mixed with nitric acid in a glass bottle in a plastic bag in a steel container.

A spokesman said the jug "just cracked from the chemical reaction," which was described as non-critical, or non-explosive.

The container held 38 grams of plutonium, he said, "enough to contaminate the room but not considered a large amount." It was estimated it would take at least a week to de-contaminate the room.

The spokesman said the men were in no danger.

Farm Course Starts At Forest Junction

Forest Junction — A class of adult farmers under the vocational agriculture department of Brillion High school held its first session here Thursday evening. David Wotho, Brillion agricultural instructor, conducts the class.

A standard 10-week course will be followed. The group will study dairy cattle management and feeding. Several sessions will be on soil and modern farm chemicals. Occasional guest speakers will visit the classes.

The first class was attended by 15 farmers from the Brillion and Forest Junction area. There is no enrollment fee and any interested person is eligible to join.

Study of County Home Role in State Welfare Program Started

Citizen Committee Will Examine Present Practices, Future Outlook

Madison — A long range study of the role of county hospitals and homes in the developing Wisconsin social welfare program got underway here at the first meeting of a citizens committee. It was named by the state welfare administration at the suggestion of Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson.

Nearly 11,000 persons, some of them mentally ill, some of them senile, some of them chronically ill and elderly and some of them merely indigent and old, now inhabit such institutions around Wisconsin under a program that goes back about 80 years.

Governor Asks
Gov. Nelson wants to know if the functions of the county homes and hospitals are adequately coordinated with the state services in the field. He also wants to know the prospects for their services in the future in view of the growing ratio of aged and ill.

Historically the counties affecting the evolution of the institutional care system will be fixing and financial liability for the institution expansions and the establishment of new facilities.

Counties may not care to build hospitals or infirmaries or other facilities if they cannot do so without financial disadvantage to themselves, he said, with a reference to the perennial disputes in the legislature about the financing arrangements for the hospitals.

The staff reports also suggested homes for the aged may be more important numerically and fiscally in the future than the county hospitals for the mentally ill. Counties have been doing a "pretty good job", said Keith, in providing such care facilities for the elderly and the chronically ill during recent years.

Mr. Glenn Arthur, Advertising Director
The Appleton Post-Crescent
Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Arthur:

Let's make this short and sweet.

The short part -- during the month of December we ran several advertisements in the Post-Crescent using ROP Color Service. Thanks to the excellent work of your Advertising Copy Service, Bauer's blossomed forth with a two-page spread of Christmas furniture on special sale and three-quarters of a page featuring Magnavox Hi-Fi and Stereo, with the announcement of "the Concert Grand".

Now for the sweet part.

There is absolutely no question of results -- the added impact of color in our advertising brought immediate attention from your thousands of readers in this trading area. It brought us immediate customers. They came in the day after the color advertisements were run, and they kept on coming throughout the holiday season -- to buy the furniture which was so dramatically displayed through the use of Color in your pages.

Our thanks go to you, to Wilmer Krueger our account representative, and to the skilled personnel at the Post-Crescent who assisted in the design, layout, copy, and reproduction of our advertisements so effectively.

As a modern furniture store, we believe in modern advertising techniques. The Post-Crescent's ROP Color Service is a "must" in our plans for the coming year.

As a "colorful" store, we want to compliment you on your "colorful" advertising. It made a most vivid impression.

Cordially yours,
Ross W. Bauer

Brillion Dumps Chilton 85-61 in EW Loop Action

EASTERN WIS. AMATEUR LEAGUE

Brillion	85	61
New Holstein	61	85
Menasha	61	85
Kiel	61	85

Chilton — The Brillion Ironmen remained undefeated in Eastern Wisconsin Amateur league play Saturday night by dumping Chilton 85-61 in a game played at Brillion.

Only five points separated the two clubs at the half and Chilton cut the lead to two points midway in the third period before dropping back. "Buck" Edinger tossed in 27 points on nine baskets and nine free throws to lead all scorers. Ken Suchan clicked for 21 points, 15 in the first half, in pacing Chilton.

A 37 point performance by Eickert carried the Hilbert AC's to a scant 86-82 win over Kiel. Hilbert took an eight point first period lead and then fought off a determined bid by Kiel during the remainder of the contest.

Eickert's total was 17 of his team's 37 field goals and three throws. He was well supported by Chappie who turned in 23 for Hilbert. Gebhart and Loehr each hit 20 for Kiel.

New Holstein took a 14 point first period lead over Reedsville, saw it cut in half during the second quarter and then stormed back to post an easy 78-63 win. Walber's 24 points paced the winners. Ramaker had 20 for Reedsville.

Free throws kept Plymouth in its ball game with Denmark, then helped to post a thrilling 65-61 overtime win. Plymouth was outshot from the floor, 25-21, but connected of 23 charity shots while the losers could make good on only 11.

Klemme and Nordyke had 24 and 20 respectively for the winners. Youra's 23 was high for Denmark and Jorgenson added 22.

Share Prices Move Lower

Down Fractions To About Point in Moderate Trading

New York — The stock market backed away listlessly in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks took losses running from fractions to a point or more.

A few specially situated issues ran counter to the trend, some posting gains of 2 or 3 points.

The decline among key industrial and rails was on a broad front, the market seeming to lack incentive for buying. At the start prices were mixed but the number of losers increased gradually.

Tight money and comment that a consistent policy of that kind usually ends business booms remained a preoccupation in Wall Street. Hesitation also was linked to the awaiting of President Eisenhower's budget message.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was down 80 cents to $225.80 with the industrials down $1.10, the rails down $1 and the utilities down 10 cents.

Corporate bonds were mixed in moderately active trading.

U.S. government bonds improved.
